16 Mustangs Take On 18 Red Jet Fighters As Doughboys Gain

Dogfights Clocked For 85 Minutes

Communist Planes Flee Across Border

SEOUL, Nov. 8.—(Wednesday)—Sixteen Communist jet planes from Manchuria waged an 85-minute battle with 16 propeller-driven American Mustangs over Northwest Korea Tuesday as Allied troops punched out counter-attacks up to more than a mile.

Three of the Soviet-type MIG-15s were damaged. But all the enemy jets escaped back to Manchuria just before 16 American F-80 jet fighters arrived at the scene of the Korean war's biggest and longest air engagement.

The spectacular dogfights over the Sinuiju area resulted in no damage to American planes or casualties to American fliers, a U. S. Fifth Airforce announcement said late Tuesday night.

On the ground American and British Commonwealth troops expanded their bridgehead north of the Lower Chongchon river in the northwest sector with a cautious advance which at some points gained about a mile.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the push was undertaken to improve the Allied tactical position and straighten the lines in an area where Chinese and Korean Red troops had mysteriously broken contact and withdrawn. The spokesman added the operation was not a full-scale counter-offensive.

A FIELD headquarters officer said that up until 6:50 Tuesday evening "no contact with Communist troops was made today" by United Nations First Corps units in the northwest sector.

The Red forces apparently shifted their main pressure inland toward the strategic center of the Korean peninsula, the "waist" in an effort to turn the Allied east flank and cut the lifelines from Pyongyang to the Chongchon bridgehead.

Fourteen miles southeast of Tokchon, Chinese and Korean Communist troops unleashed a heavy enveloping onslaught against the U. S. Second Infantry Division. Between Pyongyang and Kunuri, infiltrating Red units were repulsed when they tried to block movement of the U. S. 25th Division to the front.

The key midland hub of Tokchon was captured by South Korean Eighth Division troops (Continued on Page Two)

U.S. Setting Up Supply Bases On French Coast

SAARBRUCKEN, Nov. 7.—A motorized convoy of approximately 1,000 United States troops rolled into France from Germany today, enroute to establish a highly important port supply base at Bordeaux to receive American arms shipments for Europe.

The entry of the American troops into France implemented a military agreement which the U. S. recently concluded with the Paris government.

Under terms of the agreement France granted the U. S. special rights to facilitate the establishment of unloading bases at Bordeaux and Laval.

The agreement also provides for establishment, under American military direction, of a special railway supply line from Bordeaux to the German frontier via Strasbourg. This will be developed with a view to making it eventually the main channel of supply for American forces in Germany.

The convoy crossed the Franco-German border between Forbach and Saarbrücken. It was composed of 281 vehicles, with 70 trailers. The convoy left Kaiserslautern, in the American occupation zone of Germany, this morning and made the border crossing preparatory to a trip across France in easy stages.

SLAV PRESSING PROGRAM

Yanks Sounding Out UN Members On China Case

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 7.—The United States today is sounding out all Security Council members—with the possible exception of Russia—on a "go slow" policy on Chinese Communist intervention in Korea.

The American government is understood to favor strongly measures aimed primarily at localizing the conflict to prevent its spread into a major war between the Reds and the UN.

The 11-nation Security Council will take up tomorrow Gen. Douglas MacArthur's report on the entrance of the Chinese Communist troops into the war against United Nations forces. It is a foregone conclusion that the Soviet Union will demand promptly at the session that representatives of Mao Tse-tung be invited to the discussion. A Peiping team already is en route to attend the council's Forum.

Wager On Taft Race To Bring Ride For Winner

There's going to be a wheelbarrow parade in Circleville Thursday.

But only two persons will be in it, and one will be a wheelbarrow. All because they made themselves a bet.

The wager was made by Karl Herrmann, chairman of Pickaway County Democratic executive committee, and Dr. G. D. Phillips, head of the county Taft committee. Subject of the bet: the reelection of Senator Robert A. Taft.

Terms call for the winner to ride in the wheelbarrow from his office to Circleville Rotary Club meeting in the basement of Elks Lodge on North Court street.

Loser will operate the controls.

The one-wheel parade probably will start about 11:30 a. m., since Rotary Club convenes at noon.

Herrmann's office is on the first floor of Pickaway Court-house. Dr. Phillips' office is on West Main street.

"One thing about it," said the doctor, whose chips are down on Taft, "I'm going to see there's no square wheel on that wheelbarrow, 'cause I'm going to be riding."

"And why," retorted Herrmann, who thinks Joseph T. Ferguson will be the next senator, "should there be a square wheel? Would I give myself a rough ride? I'm the guy that'll be sitting."

Herald Books Special Edition

The Circleville Herald is scheduled to publish a special election result edition at 7 a. m. Wednesday. Hope is to include all available unofficial results in local, state and national contests.

Wednesday afternoon's regular edition will carry final results with tabulations of voting in the various local precincts.

mosa debate scheduled to start Nov. 15.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky is in Washington for the observance of the "October Revolution" anniversary, but will return for the meeting on the MacArthur report.

THE UNITED States is pointing out to Security Council members that the Korean United Nations Commission could be instructed to proceed to the Yalu river area and investigate the military situation. Hopes are still strong that the Chinese troops will withdraw after stripping the hydro-electric plants there of all worthwhile machinery.

At the same time, Yugoslavia's Ales Bebler—president of the Security Council for November—is pressing for instructions to the Korean commission to seek immediate negotiations with the Chinese Communists. Bebler wants the establishment of a neutral strip of border territory on both sides of the river areas in which the hydro-electric plants are located and a cease-fire there on the same basis.

MacArthur's report identifying a number of units taken from the 40th, 42nd and 38th Chinese Communist armies strengthened opinion at the UN that the intervention was not intended as the prelude to a general offensive by the Communists to recapture all Korea.

The impression is that only piecemeal "expedient" units were tossed in by Mao to dismantle the hydro-electric plants on the Yalu river.

Solon Says NAM Wants National Tax On Sales

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A tax legislator declared today that manufacturers have launched a drive for enactment of a nationwide retail sales tax to take the place of an excess profits levy on corporations.

Rep. Eberharter, (D) Pa., said the drive is spearheaded by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Eberharter is a member of the tax-drafting House Ways and Means Committee and has led the fight for enactment of an excess profits tax.

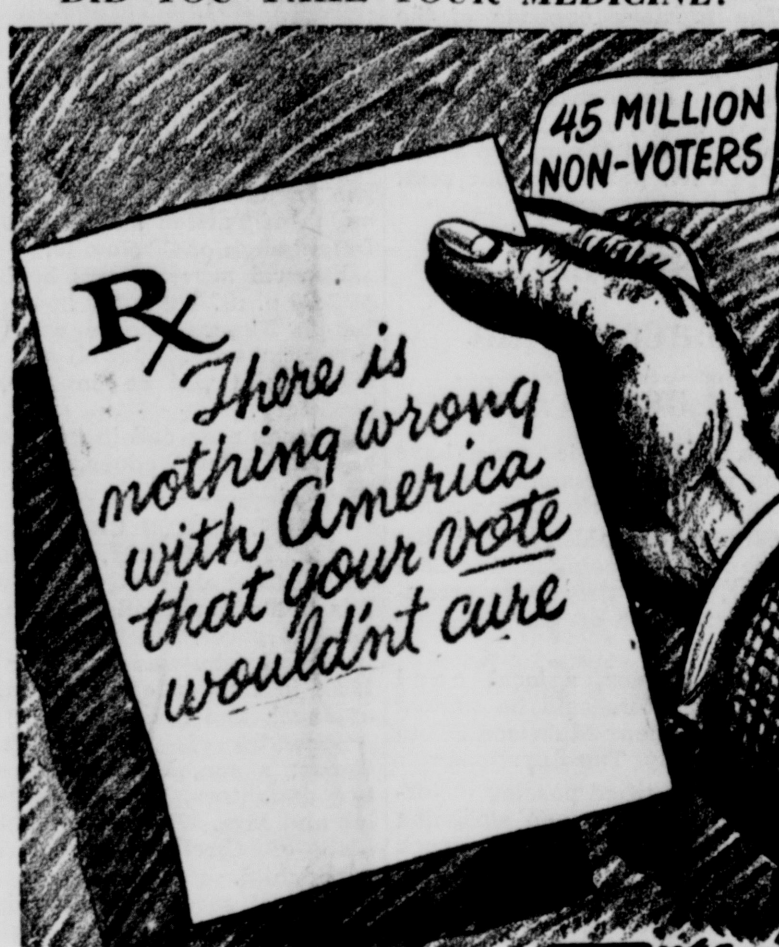

The Pennsylvanian said the attempt to write into law a federal sales tax on all retail transactions will be fought within his committee. It is scheduled to meet Nov. 15.

Eberharter stated that there was sentiment also for a transaction tax, which he described as a pyramid sales tax. Under this type of tax, a levy is paid on an article every time it changes hands—by the manufacturer, middlemen and consumer.

Eberharter pointed out that Congress directed his committee and the Senate Finance Committee to submit an excess profits tax on corporations for enactment, if possible, at the post-war session.

RETAIL LEVEL IS EYED

Probe Panel Set To Rap Meat Price Profiteering

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Senate probers said today that the post-Korean war surge in meat prices represents "pure profiteering" and that some dealers are charging consumers "all the traffic will bear."

The Gillette subcommittee on food prices found the preliminary results of its investigation so "interesting" that it may reopen its hearings soon to go further into meat prices.

The subcommittee held hearings three days during September but has issued no findings. Staff members have since compiled additional figures which one staffer declared "shows no doubt whatsoever that pure profiteering is responsible for the increases on the retail level."

Chairman Gillette, (D) Iowa, has had his hands full with another subcommittee he heads on elections. The elections subcommittee is currently investigating campaign expenditures and practices in several states.

BUT GILLETTE is expected to give his approval shortly to the issuance of the sharply-worded report attacking meat dealers for the tremendous spread between the price paid for beef and other meats on the hoof and the cost of finished meat to the consumer.

Charts prepared by the subcommittee show that hamburger, for instance, sold retail for about 55 cents per pound at the time the Korean war broke out. In little more than a month, it shot up to more than 60 cents per pound and then leveled off at just under 60 cents.

During the same period, a staffer pointed out, the price for a side of beef remained steady at about 50.5 cents per pound and steers on the hoof sold for about 30 cents per pound.

The subcommittee blames

New Hampshire To OK Dollar

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 7.—An interesting constitutional amendment today found New Hampshire voting on the question of making American currency legal tender in the state.

When the state constitution was written, currency was figured on the British system. The law, to date, has been unchanged so that, technically, merchants were required to set their prices in pounds, shillings, etc.

Flickinger admitted that his engineers have "not had enough funds to go ahead and plan for a new structure" but that "there is no tendency to abandon the project."

Before the recent shift of responsibility to Flickinger, the conservation department was in charge of completing the six dams which have subsequently been termed "bad."

"Our chief difficulty right now is lack of funds," said Flickinger. "We plan to submit a request for more funds to the next legislature."

But, at the same time, the new chieftain refused to venture a guess as to when construction on a new dam here might start if funds are made available.

"We have six bad dams now," he said. "I'd be very reluctant to say anything about the Pickaway dam until everything is ready and safe."

Voters Flocking To Polls In Vital Tuesday Election

SURPRISES ARE EXPECTED

32 States Ballot Today On Members Of Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Forty million Americans cast their ballots today to elect a new Congress and governors in 32 states, amid signs that independent voting will result in a number of spectacular surprises.

In all, 36 senators and 432 members of the House aside from state tickets, will be chosen during the day.

Good election weather over most of the nation favored a heavy turnout of voters. Only the Northern Plains States, the Northern Great Lakes area and the St. Lawrence Valley expect anything but blue skies. Showers are predicted for the three northern areas.

There are indications of the voters taking a slight "turn to the right" in line with their balloting in primary and special elections earlier in the year.

But all signs point to the Democrats retaining control of both House and Senate by small majorities. Even the Republicans do not predict a GOP landslide, though the voters may be casting their ballots to that end.

IT SEEMS TO BE an election in which personalities top issues. In other words, the voters apparently are going to vote for or against an individual, rather than on straight party issues.

There has been no single nationwide issue on which Democrats and Republicans joined battle. Rather a series of issues, raised locally, differ from state to state.

Many voters are concerned by GOP charges of Communist infiltration into the Truman administration. Other anti-administration irritants are higher taxes and the increased cost of living. Another is the Korean crisis, which may have much deeper impact on the people than is evidenced on the surface.

The Republicans have a better chance to gain control of the Senate than of the House, though an unexpected GOP landslide could easily give them command of both.

Without a GOP landslide, the Democrats should make a four or five vote margin in the Senate.

Minor Election Gripes Noted

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—The usual minor complaints came pouring into Secretary of State Charles S. Sweeney's office today as Ohioans were voting in record numbers.

The first complaint, from Zanesville, charged that Junior Chamber of Commerce members were hauling voters to the polls. Sweeney pointed out "there was nothing at all" wrong with this practice.

The second call, from Ravenna, was to inquire if voters must sign the poll book. Sweeney informed the board that the signatures were necessary even if by an "X" mark if the voter were illiterate.

ment was all under one head, that batch of personnel passes the buck back to the last Republican administration.

Nevertheless, the fact still remains that plans and specifications were approved by the state board of control which released the funds.

Originally, it was believed the project would cost about $150,000 in taxpayers' money. That figure was boosted to $200,000.

And now, John Q. Taxpayer will be expected to dig deeper to make a memorial lake and park out of what now is only a very expensive pile of dirt.

Circleville Turnout May Set Record

All Ohio Taking Big Interest

Voting booths were jammed from the very start Tuesday as an estimated record of 3.5 million Ohioans cast their ballots to determine the fate of Republican Senator Robert A. Taft and Democrat Governor Frank J. Lausche.

If early tabulations may be used as an indicator, this year's election will nearly equal the 1948 presidential election in number of votes cast in Circleville.

According to a survey of the city polling places at noon Tuesday, a total of 1,289 ballots had been cast.

At noon during last year's election only a total of 1,006 voters had gone to the polls, indicating that this year's final vote may exceed the 1949 total of 2,803.

In addition, the early check compares favorably with figures taken as of noon on election day in 1948, the presidential election. IN 1948 A total of 1,710 Circleville voters had flocked to the polls as of noon while the total vote exceeded 3,600.

Precinct A of Ward one led in Tuesday's balloting with a total of 154, while Precinct A of Ward two was second with a total of 150.

Smallest number of votes cast as of noon Tuesday was registered by Precinct D of Ward Four, in which only 44 persons had voted.

Meanwhile, a total of 81 Circleville Township voters had travelled into Circleville at the noon check to "X" their ballots.

Complete tabulation of the voting as of noon Tuesday, listed by ward and precinct, follows:

Ward one, Precinct A, 154; B, 106; C, 127; D, 60; E, 75.
Ward two, Precinct A, 150; B, 104.
Ward three, Precinct A, 129; B, 120.
Ward four, Precinct A, 50; B, 73; C, 97; D, 44.

Circleville Township, 81.

The state's chief election officer, Secretary of State Charles S. Sweeney, said the new off-type ballot apparently was causing some delay.

The new ballot, in use for the first time, blocks "straight ticket voting" with a single "X" and required instead, a mark in front of the name of each favored candidate.

Reports from the precincts at Sweeney's office indicated that women were playing a vital role in what is generally conceded to be the nation's most important off-year election. They were pouring in during the early hours to cast their ballots to determine if the two-term veterans, Taft and Lausche, were to be given new leases of official life or voted out of office.

The betting odds were they would emerge the victors. In Cleveland, bookies favored Lausche at 17 to 5 and Taft at 7 to 5.

Leg Iron Said Just Forgotten

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 7.—When Alexandria police picked up Pete Lynch they thought they had a sure thing in an escaped prisoner, with evidence attached.

The evidence was a leg iron that Lynch was industriously attempting to file off when he was arrested. The cops were not inclined to believe his story that he had been released from a Virginia prison camp.

Our 'Dam' Is Only $200,000 Pile Of Dirt

Pickaway County has a $200,000 pile of dirt as a monument to incompetency out on Devil's Backbone to represent its proposed Memorial Lake and Park.

Officials of Ohio's state wildlife division in Columbus disclosed Tuesday that the earth-filled dam now constructed at the headwaters of Hargus Creek "has to be rebuilt."

The Pickaway project is one of six Ohio conservation projects which has turned sour and which will have to be constructed anew.

V. M. Flickinger, head of the department's division of parks, is now director of activities in reconstruction of the lake program in a recent shift of responsibility in the department.

"Your dam down there is unsafe and unusable," Flickinger said, "and will have to be rebuilt."

"My engineers report that, for one thing, the present dam does not have sufficient freeboard on top and might break loose in case of heavy pressure."

"In addition," he added, "the present spillway is bad and will have to be removed."

Flickinger admitted that his engineers have "not had enough funds to go ahead and plan for a new structure" but that "there is no tendency to abandon the project."

Before the recent shift of responsibility to Flickinger, the conservation department was in charge of completing the six dams which have subsequently been termed "bad."

"Our chief difficulty right now is lack of funds," said Flickinger. "We plan to submit a request for more funds to the next legislature."

But, at the same time, the new chieftain refused to venture a guess as to when construction on a new dam here might start if funds are made available.

"We have six bad dams now," he said. "I'd be very reluctant to say anything about the Pickaway dam until everything is ready and safe."

He added that in one of the six bad dams, one broke loose and caused considerable damage.

"You've no idea how many claims for damage we have received because of that washed out dam," he said.

"Actually, you people have two things accomplished. You have the land for the lake and park and also the grubbing has been completed."

The man added that the situation which prevailed in the other department which has led to the headaches about dams "has been remedied."

"We have some very competent personnel here now," he said, "men who know dams and how they should be built."

It was pointed out, however, that while Flickinger passed the buck back to the era when the state conservation department was all under one head, that batch of personnel passes the buck back to the last Republican administration.

Nevertheless, the fact still remains that plans and specifications were approved by the state board of control which released the funds.

Originally, it was believed the project would cost about $150,000 in taxpayers' money. That figure was boosted to $200,000.

And now, John Q. Taxpayer will be expected to dig deeper to make a memorial lake and park out of what now is only a very expensive pile of dirt.

Circleville Turnout May Set Record

bor organizations of the entire nation could give him, is Democrat Joseph T. Ferguson, state auditor for 14 years. Lausche is being challenged by the six-term Republican state treasurer, Don H. Ebricht, who has never been beaten in a political campaign.

The state's 10,387 polling places will be open until 6:30 p. m., but will not close their doors until the last voter in line at the closing hour is taken care of.

The weatherman promised cool but not cold weather—similar to Monday's—with a few clouds but no lengthy showers. Such weather is perfect to bring out all-time record balloting.

The previous high vote was the 3,376,239 ballots cast in the Roosevelt-Willkie battle of 1940, when the third term was an issue.

The "off-year"—that is to say, non-presidential year—record of 2,343,862 of 1946 is a lead-pipe cinch to be surpassed.

In addition to the senatorial and governorship races, Ohio elects a full slate of state officers except state auditor; 22 district congressmen and one congressman-at-large; a full house of 133 state representatives and 35 state senators, and a majority of the seven judges on the state supreme court.

Locally, county commissioners and other officials are to be chosen and local issues decided. There are 27 wet-or-dry contests.

A TOTAL OF 276 school bond issues, totaling $97,074,404, are to be voted upon, and 560 school boards will present operating levies.

But the unchallenged feature attractions are the fight between Taft, son of a President, and Ferguson, son of a coal miner, and the battle between Lausche and Ebricht.

Farm interest is intense, with all candidates remembering 1948, when the rural vote backed off on the Republicans and resulted in an unexpected Democratic majority.

Since farmers have enjoyed exceptionally mild weather this Fall that has enabled them to keep ahead of their autumn chores, even a pleasant day that normally would keep them in the fields is not expected to keep them away from today's election.

The first use of Ohio's new office-type ballot which makes it impossible to vote a "straight ticket" party ballot with a single "X," emphasizes a factor that has been apparent all during the sizzling campaign. That is, that party lines will mean little in deciding the victors.

Even Lausche, a Democrat, has refused to say whether he would cast his senatorial ballot for Republican Taft or Ferguson, a member of his own political party.

The so-called "wise money" is on Taft and Lausche, despite their different political faiths. And the reason lies in Cleveland.

Cuyahoga County, which casts one-fifth of the total vote, is expected to give its independent-minded native son, Lausche, a smashing plurality more than sufficient to overcome any possible lead the GOP may be able to build up for Ebricht downstate.

As for Taft, polls indicate he will do far better than he did six years ago, when he squeaked through to a second term after seeing a downstate lead of 114,000 shrink to a scant 17,740 because of the Cleveland area.

Even if he loses the county by 60,000 votes, as expected, he still could pile up a handy margin elsewhere to remain the nation's "Mr. Republican" in the U. S. Senate.

Leaving Scene Brings Hearing

Andrew Jacobs, 74, of West Water street, was held on $200 bond for grand jury action Monday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller on an accusation of leaving the scene of an accident.

Officer Rod List, who signed the affidavit, said the man failed to stop Oct. 10 after his auto allegedly collided with a parked car on South Washington street, owned by David Montgomery.

Localite, 23, To Get Parole

A 23-year-old Circleville man will be among 65 to be paroled from Ohio State Reformatory in Mansfield Dec. 20.

He is Charles Clevenger, sentenced to Mansfield July 7, 1949, for burglary and larceny. Clevenger escaped from the reformatory last year, was taken back Oct. 2, 1949, after he gave himself up to Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

Hart's Location Splits Ticket

HART'S LOCATION, N. H., Nov. 7—Hart's Location, a tiny White Mountain village of five homes which gave Republican Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey ten of its eleven votes two years ago, today split the ticket in the state election.

Villagers gave Republican U. S. Sen. Charles W. Tobey 6 votes to 4 for his Democratic rival, Emmett J. Kelley.

They voted 5 to 4 for Robert P. Bingham, Democratic candidate for governor, over the incumbent governor, Sherman Adams.

Firm Is Given $1 Million Loan

ATHENS, Nov. 7—The McBee Co., manufacturers of office machines and equipment here, has obtained loans worth $1 million.

The company announced that it has obtained a $598,000 loan from the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York and another of $402,000 from the New York Trust Co.

The company will use $394,000 to retire funded debt and $400,000 for new equipment.

Mrs. Lausche Is Superstitious

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7—Even a governor's wife can be superstitious—especially around Election Day.

Mrs. Jane Lausche, wife of Ohio's Governor Frank Lausche, viewed the famous Hope Diamond on display in Cleveland yesterday and said:

"I won't touch it. I'm that Irish and that superstitious."

Gov. Lausche runs for reelection today.

McClure Hughes Back In Army

IN OTHER SENATE races, the Democrats have eleven sure victories—in Arkansas, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina (where two are elected), Rhode Island and South Carolina. They are also favored in Maryland, Nevada and Washington.

The Republicans seem sure to win Vermont, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Oregon and New Hampshire, though Democrats dispute the latter outcome. The GOP is also a favorite in Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, now held by Republicans, and in Pennsylvania where Gov. James H. Duff is expected to defeat Democrat Sen. Francis J. Myers.

The mystery contests of the day are Connecticut (2 seats), Illinois, Oklahoma, Utah, all held by Democrats, Missouri and Colorado, now held by Republicans, and Idaho, two seats, where each party has one seat.

Gas-Snitchers To Face Count By Local Cops

Three Zanesville men have been arrested for siphoning gasoline from a truck in Circleville.

City police said Tuesday the three men are being held in Lancaster, where they were arrested on request of the local department.

Merle Turner, a local coal truck operator, said he parked his vehicle near Main and Scioto streets early Tuesday.

An unidentified passing motorist spotted three men siphoning gasoline from the Turner truck and attempted to pursue them, police said, but he lost the race when stopped by a traffic light uptown.

The motorist then reported to the city police, who notified the Lancaster officers to be on the alert for the auto, travelling east from Circleville.

Accusations of petty larceny were expected to be filed against the trio late Tuesday or Wednesday.

4 Or 5 Acres Land Burned Late Monday

A minor "forest fire" in Salt Creek Township was extinguished Monday afternoon by the Circleville rural fire unit.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said he was called at about 2:30 p. m. to the Richard Jones farm, where leaves, grass and brush were afire in a woods.

"I expect about four or five acres of woods was burned," the chief said. "It was pretty badly scorched when we got it out."

The city fire truck was called out at 11:10 a. m. Tuesday to put out a fire in the Willard Smith home, South Washington street.

Chief Wise said paper behind a stove in the kitchen had caught fire, causing small damage.

Jeanne Rose Given Position

Jeanne Rose of Deer Creek Township was chosen to represent Chillicothe district at a new youth organization committee to be known as State Young Men and Women's Committee. This committee will make plans for the Older Rural Youth program.

Miss Rose was selected during the Jackson's Mill, W. Va., conference held over the weekend. Attending were Miss Rose, Barbara Defenbaugh, Art Dick and Cook Metzger. Miss Genevieve Alley, Pickaway County home demonstration agent, accompanied them along with Merle Thomas, associate county agent.

Deputies Eye Cincy Polls

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7—Sheriff's deputies were stationed at Hamilton County election polls today to spot any of the 45 persons now under indictment for false registration who may try to vote.

Twelve persons pleaded innocent yesterday to the fraudulent registration charges before Judge John W. Peck, criminal court jurist. The 12 were released on their own recognizance. However, Prosecutor Carson Hoy said most of the names on the false registrations were fictitious.

School A-Study Being Urged

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—Atomic energy reached the county level today in a letter from Summit County Commissioner John Poda, suggesting courses in A-bomb problems in the schools along with the three Rs.

Poda's letter went to State Education Director Clyde Hinson recommending that boards of education throughout the state start drawing up an atomic energy curriculum immediately.

An unidentified passing motorist spotted three men siphoning gasoline from the Turner truck and attempted to pursue them, police said, but he lost the race when stopped by a traffic light uptown.

The motorist then reported to the city police, who notified the Lancaster officers to be on the alert for the auto, travelling east from Circleville.

Accusations of petty larceny were expected to be filed against the trio late Tuesday or Wednesday.

$865 Judgment Awarded Here After Mishap

An $865 judgment against Louise Cyphers has been awarded to Leonard Collins by Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The lawsuit grew out of a two-car collision on U. S. Route 23 on Nov. 2, 1946. Plaintiff was a passenger in a car operated by Leroy H. Beery. Other car was driven by the defendant.

In his petition Collin asked for a judgment of $6,201.15. Judge Radcliff ruled he was entitled to recover $865 for loss of earnings, pain and suffering.

The case was heard Sept. 9 and 10, 1948, was submitted to the court for decision without intervention of a jury by agreement of the parties.

Revolutionary Gets Funeral

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—Griselio Torresola, the Puerto Rican revolutionary who attempted to kill President Truman, is getting a $2,000 funeral today, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation banned a public display of the would-be assassin's body.

R. D. Clark, of the State Department's security division, said the FBI rejected a family request to have Torresola's body lie in state for 24 hours in a Brooklyn funeral home.

After the brief funeral the body will be sent by plane to Torresola's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clodimiro Torresola, in Jayuya, Puerto Rico.

City Council Meet Expected To Be Brief

Circleville city council will meet Tuesday night, but, according to City Hall observers, the meeting will be as short as the solons can make it.

Reason advanced for the predicted haste—Tuesday night is election night.

Coming up for consideration by the lawmakers will be four bills to:

1. Pump more cash into the special police fund.
2. Provide $125 to buy food for prisoners in the city jail.

3. Supply cash for purchase of a police motorcycle radio.

4. Provide money to pay the city engineer's salary.

There is also a possibility that an ordinance requiring city foodhandlers to be licensed will be reported out of the health committee.

On former occasions when bills calling for more money in the special police fund have been presented, the lawmakers have protested loudly.

Whether they will take time out for oratory on election night is doubted by most observers.

Collins Estate Land Sale Gets Court Approval

Private sale of real estate in Darbyville, part of the Louisiana Collins estate, has been confirmed in Pickaway County probate court by Judge George D. Young.

The tract was sold to Delila Certain for $325 by Willis Lockhard, executor.

Also in probate court a petition to sell real estate in Commercial Point, part of the George Frettinger estate has been filed by Guy Cline, administrator. The property has been appraised at $1,300.

The Frettinger estate has been ruled not subject to inheritance tax. The Amanda Frettinger estate also has been ruled not subject to tax.

Samuel D. Geddes has been appointed administrator of the Millie M. Geddes estate, valued at $750, all in real estate.

Divorce Ends 1948 Marriage

A divorce has been granted to Norma J. Davis from Charles W. Davis in Pickaway County common pleas court. Both are minors.

Judge William D. Radcliff found the husband guilty of gross neglect, awarded custody of the couple's child to the wife, but gave the husband the right to visit the child on Sunday afternoons.

An agreement for division of the couple's property was approved by the judge. The couple was married Oct. 11, 1948, in Greenup, Ky.

Contempt Claimed By Woman Here

James William Burkhardt has been ordered to appear in Pickaway County common pleas court at 2 p. m. Friday to answer an accusation of contempt.

The accusation was filed by Nettie Mae Burkhardt alleging that the defendant failed to obey a former court order requiring him to pay $8 a week for support and $125 arrearage.

War Trend May Alter Poll Results

Communist Gains Seen Hurting Demos

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Political leaders were watching the news from Korea today for last minute effects of Communist Chinese—Korean counterattacks on the tempers of the nation's voters.

The recent rally by the Red allies beclouded at least temporarily the political advantage which administration Democrats believed they had gained from the United Nations sweep through North Korea.

Political lieutenants who do not normally believe elections are affected by events of the final two or three days, showed concern about the surprise Chinese Red intervention.

They noted that news of the fighting near the Manchurian border had been overshadowed by the assassination attempt on President Truman. Some observers felt the two grim events might balance each other off in the effect upon "on the fence" voters.

A RECORD turnout of off-year voters is expected today, when the nation will fill 36 Senate seats from 33 states, elect an entire House of Representatives and pick 33 governors, plus other state and local officials.

The big fight is for congressional control, with the outcome in many decisive contests close. The best informed political soothsayers are frankly "guessing" on a handful of Senate seats. Few observers, however, expected the Senate or House to change control from the Democrats, barring a GOP landslide.

The Senate is now divided 54 Democrats to 42 Republicans. The most optimistic GOP forecasts suggest a gain of five seats. To win control, the Republicans must hold their own and gain seven Democratic seats.

Democratic spokesmen are more optimistic now than they were a month or six weeks ago. They hint at surprising gains in states like Idaho and Connecticut, where a few weeks ago Democratic candidates were the underdogs in pre-election speculation.

One informed Democratic campaign official said he now expects the Democrats to show a net gain in Senate strength. House campaign officials have been more cautious. Democrats have predicted little shift in strength, not more than 10 or 15 seats either way.

Their latest estimate is for a possible Democratic net gain of five seats; this has not happened in an off-year election since 1934.

Meade Youth Said 'Deficient'

Donald E. Neff, 19, of Meade has been declared mentally deficient by Lima State Hospital officials.

The youth was sent to Lima by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff for a 30-day observation period after he pleaded guilty to a Pickaway grand jury indictment for arson.

It is probable that Neff will be returned to Lima. He was brought here Thursday.

Assassination Case Going To Grand Jury

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The government will ask a grand jury tomorrow for a first-degree murder indictment against Oscar Collazo, just one week after he attempted to assassinate President Truman.

District Court Judge Edward A. Tamm said a court-appointed attorney would defend the Puerto Rican Nationalist charged with the fatal shooting of White House Police Pvt. Leslie Coffelt.

The office of U. S. Attorney General Moarris Fay said 23 witnesses will be called to testify for the government. The grand jury is expected to look into the entire case and it is possible that more witnesses will be summoned.

Collazo agreed to be defended by a court-appointed attorney because, he said, he has no money and no friends have come to his aid. His wife is being held under $50,000 bond in New York, charged with conspiracy in the plot.

Collazo is recovering from a bullet wound suffered when he and Griselio Torresola attempted to storm Blair House and assassinate the President last Wednesday. Torresola and Coffelt were killed in the gunfight and two other policemen were wounded.

Woman's Body Found In River

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7.—Hamilton County authorities attempted today to establish the identity of a weighted and bound woman's body found in the Ohio river near here.

The woman, believed to be between 25 and 35 years of age, was clad in underclothing and a housecoat.

An autopsy report showed that the woman had been beaten to death. The coroner's report said the woman had a skull fracture. The report also showed that the woman, trussed in wire and weighted with five pieces of metal, was an expectant mother.

with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Borror.

The Ashville Civilian Defense Corps held a practice checkup on all planes passing over Ashville Saturday and Sunday.

THIS IS PROGRESS?

A NEW YORK auction gallery is selling for an estate nine complete suits of armor and an assortment of, helmets, breastplates, gauntlets, spurs and 16th century engraved halberds.

In medieval times, when warfare was hand-to-hand combat, an armored knight had to be hoisted on his armored horse by a crane. The world has progressed beyond all that. Now the warrior leaps into his armor, steps on the starter and the whole thing rumbles off on endless tracks that can climb over or batter down almost every obstacle—except another tank.

The GI in his tank is not much safer than the knight in his armor. The steel is stronger, but the power of antitank weapons has kept pace. The knight had to worry about nothing except another guy with a lance. The bazooka was still part of the progress of the future.

Knightly armor has at least one advantage over the tank. It makes a more romantic decoration for a baronial hall. Where is the collector of 2400 going to put a row of tanks, and won't they look pretty terrible? Of course, the world is making such rapid progress in military matters that by 2400 there may not be anyone around to collect anything, and there may be nothing to collect.

At any rate, if Macaulay's traveler comes from New Zealand (that man who shall "in the midst of a vast solitude take his stand on a broken arch of London Bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's") he may see in the tank of 1950 only what man today sees in the armor of 1550, the triumph of brutality over civilization.

Certainly he may doubt that in most matters of enduring importance there was much progress between 1550 and 1950.

WHAT A SUMMER

THE PHILOSOPHY of moderation seems to be continually losing ground to epidemics of runaway tempers and uncurbed appetites. Latest example is Indian summer, if that is what it was, which exchanged calmness for meteorological carousal and went a-whopping down the warpath of excess.

Any spell of warm, quiet, hazy weather occurring in the fall may be termed Indian summer, although some authorities say this seasonal mirage comes later in the season. Such a season, says one encyclopedia, is characterized by "calm, translucent atmosphere and mellow sunshine."

This time, however, instead of calm and mellow atmosphere, Indian summer blew its top, established heat records and brought muttered suggestions that it be given back to the Indians.

These Days

Dear Harold Stassen:

I have long pondered your letter to Joe Stalin. I am sure that you were sincere when you wrote it, and I know that you took counsel of many wise men.

Yet, to me, your letter to Uncle Joe represents more enthusiasm than wisdom.

In the first place, the responsibility for the conduct of our international relations is vested in the President of the United States and his secretary of state. They cannot shirk that responsibility. Unless a citizen is delegated by the President to negotiate with a foreign power, he has no authority. Whatever he says is private conversation. There is even a law forbidding citizens to take such a task on themselves.

We want to hold the President and the secretary of state responsible for the business that the Constitution delegates to them. If their policies are sound and come out right, they are deserving of commendation. If their policies are wrong and come out awry, we should criticize and condemn them.

It seems to me that in this respect, all you can do is muddy the waters. It is like that bipartisan foreign policy which so many Republicans thought would save the world. The most that was bipartisan about it was the sharing of blame for some of the most egregious errors in our history. No Republican was consulted with regard to the abandonment of Chiang Kai-shek. Great Britain was consulted, but not the Republican Party; yet the Republicans have to share the blame for it—all except those who denounced it.

In the second place, we are at war with Soviet Russia. Stalin is our enemy. American boys are dying in Korea because Stalin is our enemy.

Now, you might go technical on me and say that we are not at war with Stalin at all, but that the United Nations is unifying Korea.

Please don't say that to me!

Neither the South nor the North Koreans ever produced a fighting force that even remotely resembled the power that the North Koreans are displaying. This was a Russian job, and in Seoul, the Koreans followed the Stalingrad pattern. And from their arms, equipment, bombs and mines we know that the Russians used them, as they are using the Viet Minh in French Indo-China, the Armenians in Iran, and so on.

So, we are at war with Stalin. I wonder what you would have thought of a private American citizen who, during our recent efforts to save the world for democracy, entered upon personal negotiations with Hitler or Mussolini?

Talking with Stalin may be more fun than a conversation with Hitler, although Stalin, back in 1917 at the Smolny Institute, seemed to be a dull, self-centered person with few social graces. Still, he may have developed over the years and Elliott Roosevelt, who should be a connoisseur of companionship, apparently found his society delectable.

It is said General MacArthur did not know of the existence of the atomic bomb until one was dropped on Japan. It sounds plausible. The general has never been in the confidence of Russian spies.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

MICHAEL was affronted by the phrasing of Liza's promise that she would not marry him. He said belligerently, "Just for the record, what's wrong with me?"

"My dear Michael, I told you I had an engagement."

"Once over lightly," he said. "I implore you."

She looked at him thoughtfully. "You," she answered, "are no Tyrone Power. Neither are you Rex Harrison."

He reared up in his chair. "Is glamor or something equally nauseating a qualification?" he demanded.

"No, but it would help. You dress badly," she went on. "You are rude and opinionated—insufferably egotistic, irresponsible, un dependable."

"You sound like Abby."

"Improvident," she continued equally, "and inconsiderate. Also a poor provider, having no visible means of support."

"I can always earn a living," said Michael, annoyed.

"No doubt, as you are bright enough, in a superficial way. But you have no stability."

Michael said, after a moment, "I believe you mean it."

"I do," she said sincerely. And she did.

"Well, in that case, we know where we stand. I think it's the foundation of a beautiful friendship."

Liza regarded him without affection. She said, "Have you thought of consulting a psychiatrist?"

"Often. Never had the money. Besides, I have diagnosed myself."

"What were your findings?"

"I have a horror of being pursued."

"Surely you know that, in the sense you mean, all men are pursued; not only by women, but by their own weaknesses?"

"That's the trouble. I'm afraid I'm easily caught up with, so I run faster than most. But as the White Queen pointed out, it takes a lot of running to remain in the same place. I have a natural inclination toward beautiful women."

I am easily deluded, given to making rash promises. And also, a chivalrous man."

Liza hooted, like a baby owl. "It's true. I—Well, never mind."

Copyright, 1950, by Faith Baldwin Currell. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

I fall in love, or an approximation thereof. My valentine wants to settle for a deep freeze and a ranch-type house on Long Island, so I start running. And I don't like the results. I mean, women who cry and make scenes, women who cling—

She said, "I can't be hearing this. It isn't true. Yet, I dare say it is. I've known for some time that men think like that, but I never expected to hear one admit it, especially to a woman."

"But," he said triumphantly, "you assured me that I need not regard you as a woman!"

"So I did." She looked at him, smiling. "I begin to like you, in a gruesome sort of way. I still can't believe that my parting shot from the curb yesterday was sufficient to put you into a crisis of the nerves. There must be something else on your mind, something with enough weight to make it crack."

"Oh, all right. It's a girl."

"You amaze me. She amazes me. I see light. In fact, I'm blinded by it. Who is she?"

"I told you about her."

"Little Miss Research, your fellow genius? Five feet eight, one hundred and twenty-five pounds. Tell me more."

"We live in the same building," he said, hunted. "She's a very—well, you know what I mean. Cooks too. At first we went out to dinner and such; then she began whipping downstairs with a plate of cookies or what, and finally, we took to eating at her place."

"That bad? I am sorry for you, Michael."

"I'm sorry for me too."

"Don't you want to marry the girl?"

He shouted, "I don't want to marry any girl!"

"All right. I'll make a bargain with you. I'll get you out of this if you promise to assist me in my—I use the word loosely—affairs."

"Really, Liza?" he said, aghast. And then brightened. "How could you?" he demanded. "She'd just be jealous and more determined than ever."

"Oh, la!" said Liza, "more and more you betray yourself. What is the superlative of heel? I can get you out of it, Michael, and she won't be jealous. Just don't ask how; and for heaven's sake, when she and I are talking, girl to girl, she'll be all right."

"I'll be all right," she said, smiling. "I'll be all right, Michael?"

He said it would have to do. "Are you feeling hard pressed?" she inquired. "Do you hear voices and sense someone breathing down your neck?"

"In a manner of speaking."

"Why don't you go into retreat," she suggested, "until Monday night? After that, your troubles will be over."

When Dr. Fleming called for her, he remarked that she was looking gay as well as lovely. And Liza said, settling back on the front seat of the convertible, "Why not? I look forward to this weekend. I remember the Goddards, I met them during the first months of my marriage, they were sweet to me. Also it is May and the weather is fine."

"What have you been doing?" She told him, in part, adding, "I can't move for some time yet and when I do the apartment will be sparsely furnished. But I am in no hurry."

don't interrupt. What's her name?"

"Marcia Jones... that is, Patty."

"Gras," asked Liza, interested, "chicken, peppermint or cake?"

"Don't be silly. She models for a living," said Michael, "as, so far, she hasn't sold anything she's written. They rechristened her at the agency. Patty Palmer."

Liza said rapidly, "Now you must go, really. Ring me and ask me to dinner, with your Patty. Have a no other man there, you needn't be selective, this time, as I must concentrate on your concerns. Just see that he's presentable."

He said, getting up, "I'll risk it." He looked at her, and laughed. "You are a one," he murmured. "By the way, how was last night?"

"Productive," said Liza, and pushed him toward the door.

It was some days before she saw him again. She was busy with painters and other matters pertaining to the apartment. She shopped, alone, for materials and furniture and when the weekend came and Michael telephoned, not for the first time, she said she was sorry but she was going to the country.

"With whom?"

"Robert Fleming. We are going to stay with some friends of his and George's. Would Monday night be all right, Michael?"

He said it would have to do. "Are you feeling hard pressed?" she inquired. "Do you hear voices and sense someone breathing down your neck?"

"In a manner of speaking."

A Very Puzzling Disease

By HERMAN M. DUNDESEN, M.D.

MULTIPLE sclerosis is still a puzzling disease of the nervous system. Damage is never confined to one area but appears in rather hit-or-miss fashion in a number of different and, often, widely separated areas at the same time. It may be slight at first or severe from the very start. Hence, symptoms are numerous and varied.

In one individual the disease may begin suddenly with apparently rather minor discomforts, such as blurring of the eyesight, tingling in the arms or legs, and clumsiness in the use of the hands. Thereafter the patient may feel well for weeks or months before further damage is done and further symptoms appear.

Severe Paralysis In another person it may come on suddenly with severe paralysis, severe muscle weakness, widespread numbness and tingling, blurring in one or both eyes, and speech and bladder difficulties.

In some cases, the condition grows steadily worse. In others, there may be periods when the progress of the disorder seems to be checked for a time. As a general rule, the diagnosis can be made on the basis of the symptoms, together with an examination showing definite damage to the nervous system.

Form of Treatment As yet, there is no satisfactory form of treatment for multiple sclerosis. However, there are a number of things which can be done that may help in checking the progress of the condition. These include keeping up the patient's nutrition by giving him a well-balanced diet, including all of the necessary vitamins. A warm climate and the avoidance of chilling and strain, both physical and mental, are helpful. Physical measures of treatment, such as heat and massage, also may have value. Infections in the teeth, sinuses, tonsils, or elsewhere in the body should be eliminated.

Two types of drugs are now used in treating multiple sclerosis. One group includes those which, it is thought, may help prevent further damage to the nervous system, while the other group is employed to help relieve symptoms produced by nervous system damage already present.

Relax Blood Vessels In the first group are preparations which dilate and relax the blood vessels. One such preparation is histamine, which is given under the skin or into a vein over long periods of time. With this treatment no patients have been cured, but improvement has been reported in many instances. Another preparation which is used is known as tetra-ethyl-ammonium chloride. This is given by injection into a muscle. It would appear that, in more than 300 patients treated, this preparation did not affect the chronic symptoms of the disease or prevent further attacks, but it did relieve symptoms in acute attacks.

In the second group are the preparations known as anticoagulants, which slow down the clotting of the blood, and have been reported to help prevent relapses. The drug used is known as dicumarol.

Large Doses The administration of large doses of vitamins does not seem to be of any particular help in multiple sclerosis. Vitamin B-12, both in large and small doses, over long periods of time, have led to slight improvement, but the exact benefits of this treatment have not as yet been determined.

The drugs employed to relieve symptoms are those which tend to lessen muscle spasm. Such drugs as neostigmine and meprobazine have been used for this purpose.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS M. A.: What is the difference between low blood pressure and anemia?

Answer: Low blood pressure means that the blood is not being pumped through the arteries with the normal amount of force. Anemia refers to a deficiency or lessening in the coloring matter or in the number of red cells in the blood.

moment I called," recalls Lester. "He listened to my squawk and asked, 'Are you trying to tell me they deal cards off the bottom in there?' I answered, 'I'm not saying that exactly—but I noticed the top card had dust on it.'"

Gus Eysell, in charge of the mammoth Radio City Music Hall, has conducted all kinds and nationalities through the mazes of the institution, and usually knows in advance just how they are going to react to the vast auditorium, the complex lighting system, the orchestra that comes up on a moving platform from the cellar, and the marvelously trained Rockettes. One visitor that stopped him cold, however, was a farmer who never had been to New York before. He never batted an eye during the tour, and spoke for the first time when he gazed up at the balcony from the center of the stage. What he said was, "This place sure would hold a lot of hay."

And the fellow who takes his thinking from somebody else has surrendered the only thing of value he was born with... his brain.

No matter who is elected we seem to be able to muddle through and the stars don't seem to show any change at the moment.

But they said Rome couldn't fall either and what a mess that ended up!

Anyway it's nice to know that we still have the privilege of a secret ballot... even if we elect the wrong guys.

Heart Murmur In Child Not Something To Cause Alarm, Specialist Says

Culture League Hears Address

"Do not be alarmed if your child has a heart murmur," members of Circleville Child Culture League were told at their annual guest night meeting. Speaker was Dr. Oliver Hosterman, member of the staff of Children's hospital, Columbus.

Addressing the league as it met in the home of Mrs. Marshall Winner, the heart specialist declared that:

"More often than not, most children have a heart murmur at some time or other in their lives."

Dr. Hosterman told the symptoms of rheumatic fever as high fever, aching joints, rapid pulse and nodules of the joints.

"Not all symptoms are present in every case," he warned. "Hospitalization where the proper drugs may be administered is the first step to be taken in event of the disease."

Dr. Hosterman spoke of the work being done on "blue babies" in Columbus. Children who could barely sit up are now running and playing in a perfectly normal fashion, he reported.

Dr. Hosterman asked that Child Culture League give his fee to Florence Nightingale cottage, Columbus.

Mrs. Winner was assisted by Mrs. James Callahan, Mrs. Larry Curl, Mrs. Robert Barnes and Mrs. Clark Martin.

Guests included Mrs. Richard Davis, Mrs. Paul Matz, Mrs. Maynard Matz, Mrs. Samuel Cook, Mrs. Virginia Hoover, Mrs. Annette Merriman, Mrs. Jack Wise, Mrs. Jane Miner and Mrs. Leonard Campbell.

Vanishing Bridge Party Series Gets Underway

Mrs. P. C. Routzahn of Northridge road held the initial affair when Child Conservation League started a series of vanishing bridge parties Friday evening.

Four tables made up Mrs. Routzahn's 16-guest party. Each of these guests will in turn give a two-table bridge party and each guest at the two-table bridge party will give a one-table bridge party—all before Thanksgiving.

Child Conservation League will use the proceeds from vanishing bridge parties for their Pickaway County Children's Home project.

On the committee arranging the parties were Mrs. Joseph Adkins Jr., Mrs. Clarence Ray Barnhart, Mrs. Robert Hedges and Mrs. Routzahn.

Guests at the party who will have two table bridge parties of their own are Mrs. Elliot Barnhill, Mrs. Joseph Bell, Mrs. Robert Brehmer Jr., Mrs. Norbert Cochran, Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Jasper Hedges, Mrs. William Heffner, Mrs. Ned Griner, Mrs. J. I. Smith, Mrs. Lincoln Mader, Mrs. Lemuel Weidner, Mrs. Henry Reid, Miss Margaret Boggs and Mrs. George Young.

WARREN BAKER—NOT SICK ONE DAY

3 Local Rural Mail Carriers Due To End 30 Years Service Same Day

Three of Circleville Postoffice's rural mail carriers will complete 30 years of such federal service on the same day—Nov. 15.

They are Warren Baker, Paul Betz and William Betts Jr.

Each received a permanent appointment as rural mail carrier Nov. 15, 1920, each is "going just as strong" today as he was in 1920.

The fact that the trio started together and has nearly finished the 30-year stint together is considered remarkable.

But even more remarkable are their individual absentee records. Betts has taken eight days of sick leave during all those nearly 30 years. Betz had been credited with only a few more than that.

But Baker's record is probably the finest in the state, perhaps in the nation—he has yet to take one day of sick leave since he started making the rounds of rural homes.

EACH MAIL-carrier is allowed ten days sick leave a year. It can accumulate so that Baker will have a grand total of 300 days due him Nov. 15.

All three men have been on the job numerous times when they could have qualified for sick leave, but they "stuck it out."

Betz, back in his younger days in the 1920s, almost was sent home to bed by the postmaster on a couple of occasions.

He appeared for duty once with a plaster cast encasing his whole chest. A couple of other times, his face was a mass of patches. Betts likes football and back in the 1920s, he was considered a better-than-average ball-toter. He played semipro ball for the old Clarksburg and Williamsport teams, came to work occasionally with cracked ribs and fractured nose.

In addition to their identical rural mail service, these three men are similar in other respects.

Each is a member of the Rural Letter Carriers' Association, each is a veteran of World War I, each is a past commander of Circleville post American Legion, each is a member of the local Elks lodge (Baker and Betz are past exalted rulers), each is a grandfather.

Their ages are varied, however. Betz is past his 55th birthday. Betts will be 55 next year while Baker is the "baby" of the trio—he is only 51.

Each has been paying into the Postoffice Department pension fund since he started working for Uncle Sam. Pensions are available after 30 years service and at age 55. They get no Social Security.

BETZ, CAN retire Nov. 15, but intends staying on for a few years. At age 60, the pension is more attractive. Betts and Baker probably will keep on the job, too, for several more years.

Times have changed for these three veteran rural mail carriers the same as in every other profession.

Back in 1920, there were eight routes out of Circleville. There are only four now. The fourth carrier is Rockford Brown who, while a veteran postal employee, has been on a rural route about seven or eight years.

When Baker, Betts and Betz started out in 1920, each drove a high-wheeled Model T open touring car.

Baker drove 25 miles a day then, serviced about 100 rural boxes. Now, he drives 60 miles, is responsible for getting mail into 375 boxes.

Betz drove 28 miles in 1920 to deliver mail to 130 boxes. Now he has 60 miles and 260 boxes.

Betz had 90 boxes in 1920 and covered 24 miles. Today's schedule calls for traveling 53 miles to reach 194 boxes.

And back in the 1920s, those Model T cars saw only gravel roads, filled either with numerous "washboards" and chuckholes or piled high with freshly-poured gravel—gravel, that is, with cocoanut-size rocks included.

And flat tires—a rural carrier could count on fixing at least one a day. His garage was a maze of extra parts for he was continually burning out timers and coils.

CARRIERS traded in Model Ts about once a year in the 1920s. Today's auto generally can last two years. And changing a tire nowadays is a rarity and takes only five or ten minutes.

The rural carriers believe that if any of them should retire and a civil service examination was announced for the post, "the high school auditorium would be filled with applicants."

But the job has not always been attractive. Rural carriers went from 1924 to 1942 with no increase in pay. They are paid solely on a mileage basis.

The ten-year period of 1920-30 and the early years of World War II are considered to have been their "toughest" years. Wages in other trades boomed, but the mailman took the same old stipend.

In the 30 years, have the people changed?

The three men are generally agreed that there has been some change, but not too much. More education has changed attitudes some, but then only for the better.

Biggest change has been in reading habits. All three men are agreed that one day's mail in 1950 is as large as a whole week's delivery 30 years ago.

There is one change the three men talk about but only reluctantly.

It is that back in the 1920s, patrons had a warm feeling toward the postal men which was demonstrated with gifts. Many a batch of sausage, sweet corn and fruit has been left in the box marked "for the mailman."

But the old generation is passing, the gifts still come but now only infrequently. The younger generation inherited the old farm, but the old spirit toward the mailman apparently didn't get passed on.

Have these 30 years been good years? Ask any one of the three and he will tell you that if he had to do it all over again—yes, he would be a rural mail carrier.

Verdi's Opera Steals Show From Show-Offs

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The solid, soiled Metropolitan Opera House wears a new face of dignity today—after a sparkling opening night performance that featured more high-style than hi-jinks.

Last night, under the glaring lights of TV cameras, the usual publicity-seeking first nighters did their spectacular stuff. But on the stage, an even more spectacular production of Verdi's almost-forgotten "Don Carlo" stole the show from the show-offs.

Rudolf Bing, the slender, shy-faced new general manager who revised and revived an old opera for its first performance in 27 years, became the man of the hour.

He was even bigger than diamonds—commonly the focus of attention on Met first nights—were prominent on prominent people. So were emeralds, orchids, camera-ready smiles and ranch, wild and silverblu minks.

But it became obvious by the end of three intermissions, when most of the audience kept returning to their seats in the famous horseshoe (rather than remaining in the plush sherry bar, as is their wont on first nights) that the opera itself was too good to miss.

Nevertheless, what could you say to him? You would, according to your letter, tell him that the United States will not go broke. Such bad news could not please him. Nor could you give him any guarantees one way or the other. This Korean war is costing us about $10 billion. How many tens of billions do we have to load on top of our national debt of $256 billion? Stalin can count, too.

Then you will tell him that we love peace. Now, precisely, what do you think the United States would gain by that?

General Douglas MacArthur is so much wiser. He reads the Lord's Prayer to the tune of "Praise The Lord And Pass The Ammunition." I bet that Joe understands that perfectly. He knows that a couple of swift kicks in the underside will destroy his prestige for invincibility.

But when he is told by a prominent Republican candidate for the presidency in the midst of actual fighting that we love peace, he can figure that there is enough anti-war feeling in the United States so that he might risk trying to bang the living hell out of the American people.

It seems to me that you ought to let Harry Truman be President of the United States and Dean Acheson, secretary of state—and let them make their own mistakes. They will do well in that direction, I am sure, without your aid.

Yours,
George E. Sokolsky

Urbana Corn Yield Record Try Is Flop

URBANA, Nov. 7.—Ohio's try for a world's record corn crop is a definite "bust" today.

The half-acre plot which was planted near here and expected—with the right amount of "coaxing"—to raise an average of 300 bushels per acre turned out only 150.

The experiment started last Spring as an exhibit for the National Plowing Matches and National Soil Conservation Field Days this Fall.

The world's record crop is 224.2 bushels per acre and the crop fell far short of that.

E. P. Reed, Ohio State university extension agronomist, helped supervise the "pampering" of the corn plot. As for the failure, he said:

"At the time of the harvest (Oct. 19 and 25) an average of 55 to 60 percent of the stalks were broken over—the most severe stalk rot damage I have ever observed."

A rainfall of 39.7 inches is believed to have been one of the determining factors in the stalk rot process.

With Charles Weidinger

Are you worried about living too long—or not long enough? Many people are worried about one or the other. Some even about both.

Yes—the fear of outliving life savings after advancing age has forced them into retirement is common to many elderly people. And the fear of what will happen to wife and family should death occur before sufficient money has been saved, gravely concerns many thoughtful young men.

Both of these fears can be removed forever by carefully planned life insurance. Planned life insurance brings peace-of-mind in youth and old age. It is a blessing throughout life. You cannot afford to be without Milestone in a Career!

We see it happen over and over again—and it's one of the greatest satisfactions we enjoy in this happy business of selling Cadillac cars.

It's when a man comes into possession of his first Cadillac—and we see the wonderful things it does for him.

We see his happiness as he places his order—not as the result of a sudden inspiration, but because he has gradually reached the conclusion that he has earned the right to enjoy the unquestioned best.

And then we see him on that happy day when his car is available for delivery—and he settles himself so proudly behind the wheel.

He's a little quizzical, we sometimes note. Could it be, he wonders, that he has been anticipating a bit too much?

And then he's out in the street—headed for home the long way 'round.

Those are thrilling days that follow.

There's the first long ride with the family... the first trip to the office... and the time he learns, in an emergency, that his car is worth its whole price in safety alone.

And then, almost before he knows it, the odometer registers a thousand miles—and he's back to tell us all about it. And, perhaps, to grumble a little bit at giving it up—even for a little while!

Yes, it's a priceless privilege to watch all this. Makes a man feel that he's doing good.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

Two more ambitious attempts to iron out the economic, social and military problems of Western Europe to create an impregnable defense against Communism are being made today.

One is a new meeting of the Council of Europe under chairmanship of Italian Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza in Rome.

The other is the World Trade Congress assembled in Torquay, Eng., for the most determined effort ever made to simplify the tariff and customs barriers and other economic complications which have bedeviled European relationships for decades.

Significantly, Germany is represented at both conferences.

In Rome, the question of an international army for Western Europe is on the agenda. And while this may not come up because of Great Britain's contention that military issues are outside the province of the Council of Europe, possible future use of German military strength will be a factor in the background.

The Trade Congress in England is supposed to concentrate mainly on economic and business matters. But here again the part that Germany is to play in Europe's future is an inescapable factor. In the present state of a world forced back into rearmament, finance and defenses are closely intertwined.

ALSO OF IMPORTANCE in connection with the two meetings is the recent conference of Western Defense Ministers in Washington.

The purely military men meeting in the American capital could not come to an agreement and postponed a major decision until it can be determined whether the proposal of French Premier Rene Pleven is a practicable one.

Pleven would limit German military units to regimental strength and include these in a "supranational" army under supervision of a civilian defense board.

But it is not impossible that the U. S. State Department and British foreign office experts meeting in Rome might find some workable, diplomatic means of applying the Pleven plan.

By the same token, the economists at Torquay will be in a position to determine whether an international army, for example, is economically feasible.

All dispatches indicate that both conferences assembled with high hopes. This is particularly so in the case of the Council of Europe.

During the last meeting at

Burglar Robs Cop's Home

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7 — There's one burglar on the loose in Cleveland today who doesn't care whose house he uses to practice his profession.

Sgt. Charles E. McWilliams of the Cleveland police department left his home with his wife late yesterday to drive to Medina County for some apples.

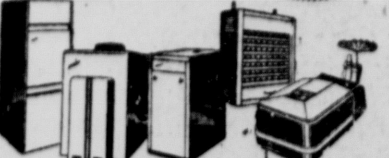

When they returned the front door had been jimmied open and McWilliams' badge, revolver, blackjack and police shoes were missing, to say nothing of $7.50 in cash.

Couple Dies

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7 — The deaths of Frank Hudson, 76-year-old retired mechanic, and his wife, Susie, 75, have been labeled murder and suicide by police. The Hudsons were found shot to death yesterday in their home in Hartwell, a Cincinnati suburb.

Traffic Resumed After N&W Flyer Jumps Tracks

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 7—Traffic was resumed today over the Norfolk and Western Railway tracks at Franklin Furnace, 16 miles east of here, where two trainmen and a passenger were injured in a derailment yesterday.

Treated in a Portsmouth hospital were Melvin Kessick, 62, of Portsmouth, the train engineer who suffered cut hands, legs and knees; C. K. Meyers, 54, Portsmouth, train fireman who suffered cuts on his chin and left knee, and John Pollard of West Union, a passenger and fireman first class in the Navy who had a sprained back.

The Cincinnati-to-Norfolk "Cavalier" was wrecked late yesterday at a cross-over switch between main line tracks. The train was being detoured around a track gang.

The locomotive overturned on its right side. An express car, two storage mail cars, a postal car and a combined passenger and baggage car were derailed. The cause of the mishap was not immediately determined.

Reds Recall Revolution

MOSCOW, Nov. 7—Moscow observed the 33rd anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution today with a traditional military parade in Red Square.

Moscow streets were jammed with crowds of spectators despite rainy weather to take part in a demonstration which started immediately after the parade.

The parade was reviewed by Marshal Semyon M. Budenny, a vice-commissioner of defense and a deputy chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Council.

Butler Slugged, TV Set Taken

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7 — Two robbers broke into the suburban home of Clark T. McConnell, prominent Cleveland attorney, late yesterday, slugged the butler and walked off with a large television set.

Police said the men probably had planned to take more loot, but were frightened off by movements of the McConnells' gardener in another room of the house.

The thugs came to the back door of the house, according to the butler, Mattis McIntosh, 54, and asked for a drink of water. McIntosh became suspicious and started toward a telephone, but the two men followed him and struck him on the head from behind, knocking him unconscious.

Doctor Held After Shooting 2 'Blackmailers'

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 7—Muncie police held a six-foot, 200-pound, one-eyed physician on suspicion of murder today and said he admitted fatally shooting two men in a bloody consulting-room struggle over an alleged blackmail plot.

Muncie Detective Fred Denny said Dr. Jules LaDuron, 57, claimed he killed Siebert Louis Carter, 27, and a brother, Ralph Carter, 30, in self-defense last night when they visited his downtown office to demand a $750 blackmail payment in connection with a professional matter.

However, witnesses who watched the victims' bullet-riddled bodies carried from the office said the physician shouted: "It's a case of blackmail that's been going on ever since my wife disappeared."

The wife, Freda, 34, has been missing since Sept. 16, 1937. Her disappearance led to a fruitless grand jury inquiry, divided the city into factions and became a bitter political issue.

Dr. LaDuron, who refused to discuss the reason for the alleged blackmail, said he already had paid $2,820 in installments of $1,000, $700, $620 and $500 during the last year.

He told Muncie Police Chief Harry Nelson he and the Carters "got in a fight and then they got me down and beat me." He added:

"I got away and went to my desk and got a revolver. When Siebert came at me, I fired. Then Ralph came toward me and I shot him four times."

This year November 11 will mark the 32nd anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, the ending of hostilities of World War I. This November 11, M. BUTCH CO., JEWELERS up-give patrons to shop early for their Christmas gifts. If you are thinking of giving a COMPACT to anyone for a gift select an Elgin American or an American Beauty by Elgin American. These compact are really beautiful and come in all shapes and sizes. American Beauty compacts are priced from $1.95 up and Elgin Americans begin at $3.95. Give gifts of quality.

Armistice Day is a really good excuse for a television party—have you been planning on a TV set—MASON FURNITURE has several 16 inch SPARTAN SETS—table models, that sell at the original price of $229.95, which price does not include the new federal tax. If you are thinking of a set, avail yourself of this opportunity.

The Unknown Soldier was laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery, on Armistice Day 1921 and since that time a whole generation has come on the scene—every mode of living has been changed—too—a new and very practical mode is noted at BLUE FURNITURE where a pair of SLEEPWELL TWIN BEDS is disguised as sectional sofas. For the small apartment these would make a delightful arrangement. The damask covers with rope trim are pretty enough to grace any living room and sell as low as a pair of ordinary twin beds—$164.95.

If the man of the house is a veteran of World War I he would appreciate having an ARVIN HEATER in the bathroom for these chilly mornings. Singing in the bathtub or even shaving in a chilly room does not tend to make him cheerful, but with an Arvin electric heater that really heats up in a hurry because it has a motor driven fan, everything should be jake. BOYD'S sell these heaters at $10.95.

Farmers Now Need To Study Low-Cost Bushel Production

High Yield Said Main Factor

Best Ponders
Purdue Report

Predictions by economists that prices are going up while agricultural income lags behind comprise a warning signal for farmers to concentrate on low-cost bushel production in the months ahead.

Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural extension agent, said Tuesday that a high yield per acre is the most important single factor in controlling cost per bushel.

He cited recent research at Purdue university on corn, wheat, soybeans, hay and pasture, where the yield per acre had more influence on keeping down costs per bushel than any other single production factor.

A survey of 134 farms in South-eastern Indiana, showed that farmers who ranked among the top third in corn yields per acre had double the net income from their crop of those in the bottom third.

For wheat, the top-yielding third had a net income eleven times greater per acre than the low one-third. The difference was three times for hay and seven times for soybeans.

PURDUE AGRONOMISTS estimate that when wheat yields were upped to 40 bushels per acre, the cost per bushel was only 84 cents. But when yields dropped to 15 bushels per acre, it cost $2.24 to produce each bushel of wheat.

"When yields per acre are high, a farmer is in better shape to make a profit in spite of rising costs or falling prices," Best observed. "The way to get higher yields is to make every acre do a better crop producing job through good soil management methods."

"In such a program you need to check whether you need fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash."

"You need plant varieties best adapted to your soil and growing conditions—heavier yielding, hardier types of corn, wheat, and soybeans. You need a good rotation in which well-fed deep-rooted legumes add organic matter and condition your soil for more bushels per acre of corn and small grains."

To be eligible for the award, Sophomore Wolf obtained a scholastic point average of 3.3.

Judge Underwood Snorts Disgust At Lustron Case

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—The Lustron Corp. case, the "white elephant" of the courts, flared up again today.

U. S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood issued a blast late yesterday at a federal court move in Chicago to send the already defunct pre-fab housing firm into bankruptcy.

Underwood claimed the "unnecessary move" will "ultimately cost taxpayers additional hundreds of thousands of dollars." While the bankruptcy proceedings are being heard in Chicago, a move of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to foreclose on Lustron for $37.5 million in loans is adding fuel to the fire of the court litigations. Underwood said:

"From a technical standpoint, the bankruptcy proceeding in Chicago is correct. From a standpoint of justice, it is absolutely uncalled for. Only the taxpayer is being gypped and he already has been gypped too much."

Housecleaning For City Now Is Major Task

For most persons housecleaning comes in the Spring, but Circleville service department worries about it in the Fall.

And, according to Service Director John Neuding, a thorough housecleaning is what the city is getting now.

"We have to prepare for Winter," he explained. "There are drains to be fixed, leaves to be cleared and streets to be patched."

He said that service department employees already have started on these jobs. The street patching is being done whenever weather permits.

He added that one of the most exasperating jobs being undertaken is filling in holes on North Pickaway street.

"Almost as fast as we fill them in, they sink again," he said, explaining that the holes were caused by new sewer lines laid during the Summer.

16 Mustangs Take On 18 Red Jet Fighters As Doughboys Gain

Dogfights Clocked For 85 Minutes

Communist Planes Flee Across Border

SEOUL, Nov. 8—(Wednesday)—Sixteen Communist jet planes from Manchuria waged an 85-minute battle with 16 propeller-driven American Mustangs over Northwest Korea Tuesday as Allied troops punched out counter-advances up to more than a mile.

Three of the Soviet-type MIG-15s were damaged. But all the enemy jets escaped back to Manchuria just before 16 American F-80 jet fighters arrived at the scene of the Korean war's biggest and longest air engagement.

The spectacular dogfights over the Sinuiju area resulted in no damage to American planes or casualties to American fliers, a U. S. Fifth Airforce announcement said late Tuesday night.

On the ground American and British Commonwealth troops expanded their bridgehead north of the Lower Chongchon river in the northwest sector with a cautious advance which at some points gained about a mile.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the push was undertaken to improve the Allied tactical position and straighten the lines in an area where Chinese and Korean Red troops had mysteriously broken contact and withdrawn. The spokesman added the operation was not a full-scale counter-offensive.

A FIELD headquarters officer said that up until 6:50 Tuesday evening "no contact with Communist troops was made today" by United Nations First Corps units in the northwest sector.

The Red forces apparently shifted their main pressure inland toward the strategic center of the Korean peninsula's "waist" in an effort to turn the Allied east flank and cut the lifelines from Pyongyang to the Chongchon bridgehead.

Fourteen miles southeast of Tokchon, Chinese and Korean Communist troops unleashed a heavy enveloping onslaught against the U. S. Second Infantry Division. Between Pyongyang and Kunuri, infiltrating Red units were repulsed when they tried to block movement of the U. S. 25th Division to the front.

The key midland hub of Tokchon was captured by South Korean Eighth Division troops (Continued on Page Two)

U.S. Setting Up Supply Bases On French Coast

SAARBRUCKEN, Nov. 7—A motorized convoy of approximately 1,000 United States troops rolled into France from Germany today, enroute to establish a highly important port supply base at Bordeaux for the American arms shipments for Europe.

The entry of the American troops into France implemented a military agreement which the U. S. recently concluded with the Paris government.

Under terms of the agreement France granted the U. S. special rights to facilitate the establishment of unloading bases at Bordeaux and Laval.

The agreement also provides for establishment, under American military direction, of a special railway supply line from Bordeaux to the German frontier via Strasbourg. This will be developed with a view to making it eventually the main channel of supply for American forces in Germany.

The convoy crossed the Franco-German border between Forbach and Saarbrücken. It was composed of 281 vehicles, with 70 trailers. The convoy left Kaiserslautern, in the American occupation zone of Germany, this morning and made the border crossing preparatory to a trip across France in easy stages.

Yanks Sounding Out UN Members On China Case

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 7—The United States today is sounding out all Security Council members—with the possible exception of Russia—on a "go slow" policy on Chinese Communist intervention in Korea.

The American government is understood to favor strongly measures aimed primarily at localizing the conflict to prevent its spread into a major war between the Reds and the UN.

The 11-nation Security Council will take up tomorrow Gen. Douglas MacArthur's report on the entrance of the Chinese Communist troops into the war against United Nations forces. It is a foregone conclusion that the Soviet Union will demand promptly at the session that representatives of Mao Tse-tung be invited to the discussion. A Peiping team already is en route to attend the council's Forum.

Wager On Taft Race To Bring Ride For Winner

There's going to be a wheelbarrow parade in Circleville Thursday.

But only two persons will be in it, and one will be a bet. Because they made themselves a bet.

The wager was made by Karl Herrmann, chairman of Pickaway County Democratic executive committee, and Dr. G. D. Phillips, head of the county Taft committee. Subject of the bet: the reelection of Senator Robert A. Taft.

Terms call for the winner to ride in the wheelbarrow from his office to Circleville Rotary Club meeting in the basement of Elks Lodge on North Court street.

Loser will operate the controls.

The one-wheel parade probably will start about 11:30 a. m., since Rotary Club convenes at noon.

Herrmann's office is on the first floor of Pickaway Court-house. Dr. Phillips' office is on West Main street.

"One thing about it," said the doctor, whose chips are down on Taft, "I'm going to see there's no square wheel on that wheelbarrow, 'cause I'm going to be riding."

"And why," retorted Herrmann, who thinks Joseph T. Ferguson will be the next senator, "should there be a square wheel? Would I give myself a rough ride? I'm the guy that'll be sitting."

Herald Books Special Edition

The Circleville Herald is scheduled to publish a special election result edition at 7 a. m. Wednesday. Hope is to include all available unofficial results in local, state and national contests.

Wednesday afternoon's regular edition will carry final results with tabulations of voting in the various local precincts.

mosa debate scheduled to start Nov. 15.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky is in Washington for the observance of the "October Revolution" anniversary, but will return for the meeting on the MacArthur report.

THE UNITED States is pointing out to Security Council members that the Korean United Nations Commission could be instructed to proceed to the Yalu river area and investigate the military situation. Hopes are still strong that the Chinese troops will withdraw after stripping the hydro-electric plants there of all worthwhile machinery.

At the same time, Yugoslavia's Ales Bebler—president of the Security Council for November—is pressing for instructions to the Korean commission to seek immediate negotiations with the Chinese Communists. Bebler wants the establishment of a neutral strip of border territory on both sides of the river areas in which the hydro-electric plants are located and a cease-fire there on the same basis.

MacArthur's report identifying a number of units taken from the 40th, 42nd and 38th Chinese Communist armies strengthened opinion at the UN that the intervention was not intended as the prelude to a general offensive by the Communists to recapture all Korea.

The impression is that only piecemeal "expendable" units were tossed in by Mao to dismantle the hydro-electric plants on the Yalu river.

Solon Says NAM Wants National Tax On Sales

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—A tax legislator declared today that manufacturers have launched a drive for enactment of a nationwide retail sales tax to take the place of an excess profits tax on corporations.

Rep. Eberhart, (D) Pa., said the drive is spearheaded by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Eberhart is a member of the tax-drafting House Ways and Means Committee and has led the fight for enactment of an excess profits tax.

The Pennsylvania said the attempt to write into law a federal sales tax on all retail transactions will be fought within his committee. It is scheduled to meet Nov. 15.

Eberhart stated that there was sentiment also for a transaction tax, which he described as a pyramid sales tax. Under this type of tax, a levy is paid on an article every time it changes hands—by the manufacturer, middlemen and consumer.

Eberhart pointed out that Congress directed his committee and the Senate Finance Committee to submit an excess profits tax on corporations for enactment, if possible, at the post-war session.

Pickaway County has a $200,000 pile of dirt as a monument to incompetency out on Devil's Backbone to represent its proposed Memorial Lake and Park.

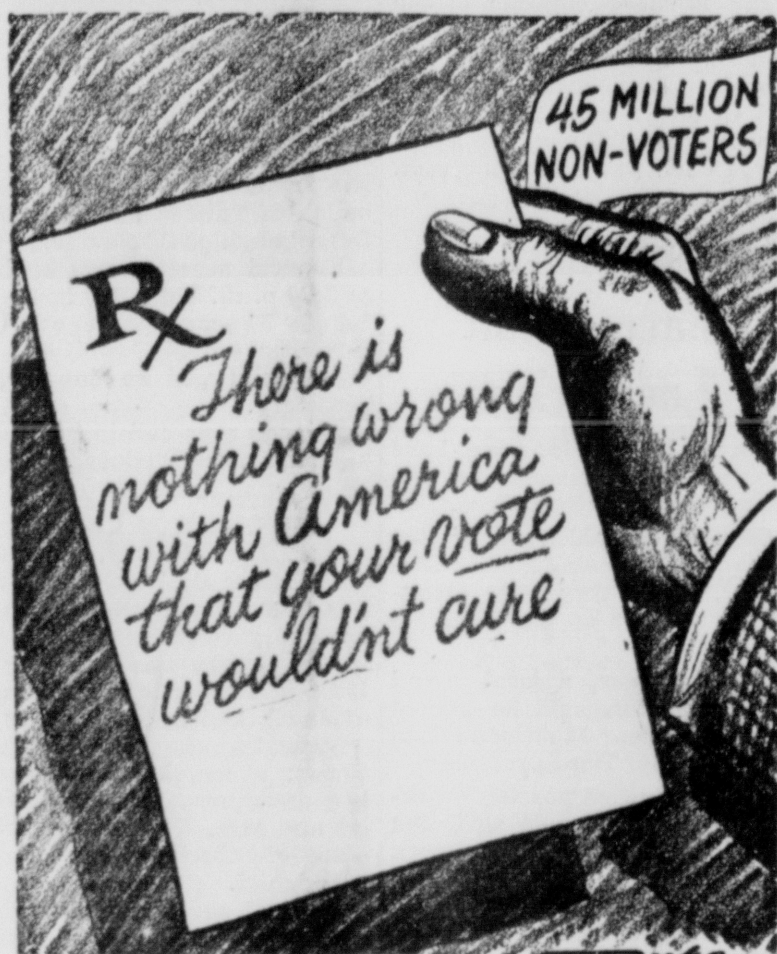

Officials of Ohio's state wildlife division in Columbus disclosed Tuesday that the earth-filled dam now constructed at the headwaters of Hargus Creek "has to be rebuilt."

The Pickaway project is one of six Ohio conservation projects which has turned sour and which will have to be constructed anew.

V. M. Flickinger, head of the department's division of parks, is now director of activities in reconstruction of the lake program in a recent shift of responsibility in the department.

"Your dam down there is unsafe and unusable," Flickinger said, "and will have to be rebuilt."

RETAIL LEVEL IS EYED

Probe Panel Set To Rap Meat Price Profiteering

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Senate probes said today that the post-Korean war surge in meat prices represents "pure profiteering" and that some dealers are charging consumers "all the traffic will bear."

The Gillette subcommittee on food prices found the preliminary results of its investigation so "interesting" that it may reopen its hearings soon to go further into meat prices.

The subcommittee held hearings three days during September but has issued no findings. Staff members have since compiled additional figures which one staffer declared "shows no doubt whatsoever that pure profiteering is responsible for the increases on the retail level."

Chairman Gillette, (D) Iowa, has had his hands full with another subcommittee he heads on elections. The elections subcommittee is currently investigating campaign expenditures and practices in several states.

BUT GILLETTE is expected to give his approval shortly to the issuance of the sharply-worded report attacking meat dealers for the tremendous spread between the price paid for beef and other meats on the hoof and the cost of finished meat to the consumer.

Charts prepared by the subcommittee show that hamburger, for instance, sold retail for about 55 cents per pound at the time the Korean war broke out. In little more than a month, it shot up to more than 60 cents per pound and then leveled off at just under 60 cents.

During the same period, a staffer pointed out, the price for a side of beef remained steady at about 50.5 cents per pound and steers on the hoof sold for about 30 cents per pound.

The subcommittee blames

New Hampshire To OK Dollar

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 7—An interesting constitutional amendment today found New Hampshire voting on the question of making American currency legal tender in the state.

When the state constitution was written, currency was figured on the British system. The law, to date, has been unchanged so that, technically, merchants were required to set their prices in pounds, shillings, etc.

and will have to be removed." Flickinger admitted that his engineers have "not had enough funds to go ahead and plan for a new structure" but that "there is no tendency to abandon the project."

Before the recent shift of responsibility to Flickinger, the conservation department was in charge of completing the six dams which have subsequently been termed "bad."

"Our chief difficulty right now is lack of funds," said Flickinger. "We plan to submit a request for more funds to the next legislature."

But, at the same time, the new chieftain refused to venture a guess as to when construction on a new dam here might start if funds are made available.

"We have six bad dams now," he said. "I'd be very reluctant to say anything about the Pickaway dam until everything is ready and safe."

Voters Flocking To Polls In Vital Tuesday Election

SURPRISES ARE EXPECTED

32 States Ballot Today On Members Of Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Forty million Americans cast their ballots today to elect a new Congress and governors in 32 states, amid signs that independent voting will result in a number of spectacular surprises.

In all, 36 senators and 432 members of the House aside from state tickets, will be chosen during the day.

Good election weather over most of the nation favored a heavy turnout of voters. Only the Northern Plains States, the Northern Great Lakes area and the St. Lawrence Valley expect anything but blue skies. Showers are predicted for the three northern areas.

There are indications of the voters taking a slight "turn to the right" in line with their balloting in primary and special elections earlier in the year.

But all signs point to the Democrats retaining control of both House and Senate by small majorities. Even the Republicans do not predict a GOP landslide, though the voters may be casting their ballots to that end.

IT SEEMS TO BE an election in which personalities top issues. In other words, the voters apparently are going to vote for or against an individual, rather than on straight party issues.

There has been no single nationwide issue on which Democrats and Republicans joined battle. Rather a series of issues, raised locally, differ from state to state.

Many voters are concerned by GOP charges of Communist infiltration into the Truman administration. Other anti-administration irritants are higher taxes and the increased cost of living. Another is the Korean crisis, which may have much deeper impact on the people than is evidenced on the surface.

The Republicans have a better chance to gain control of the Senate than of the House, though an unpredicted GOP landslide could easily give them command of both.

Without a GOP landslide, the Democrats should keep a four or five vote margin in the Senate.

Minor Election Gripes Noted

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—The usual minor complaints came pouring into Secretary of State Charles S. Sweeney's office today as Ohioans were voting in record numbers.

The first complaint, from Zanesville, charged that Junior Chamber of Commerce members were hauling voters to the polls. Sweeney pointed out "there was nothing at all" wrong with this practice.

The second call, from Ravensburg, was to inquire if voters must sign the poll book. Sweeney informed the board that the signatures were necessary even if by an "X" mark if the voter were illiterate.

"Actually, you people have two things accomplished. You have the land for the lake and park and also the grubbing has been completed."

The man added that the situation which prevailed in the other department which has led to the headaches about dams "has been remedied."

"We have some very competent personnel here now," he said, "men who know dams and how they should be built."

It was pointed out, however, that while Flickinger passed the buck back to the era when the state conservation department was all under one head, that batch of personnel passes the buck back to the last Republican administration.

Nevertheless, the fact still remains that plans and specifications were approved by the state board of control which released the funds.

ate and a 20-vote majority in the House.

Both Democrats and Republicans are fearful of surprises. Three that seem quite possible are:

1. The size of the expected victory of Sen. Robert A. Taft in Ohio. An INS survey indicates his reelection by more than 225,000 votes, but there are signs it may exceed 400,000.

2. A Republican sweep in New York, with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey being reelected and Lt. Gov. Joseph R. Hanley defeating (Continued on Page Two)

Observers Eye Unpredictable Gotham Election

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—New York's most unpredictable state election in half a century is in the hands of the voters today and the outcome is expected to rest on thousands of "split tickets" in New York City.

Political leaders looked for a total statewide vote exceeding five million—at least a million less than the 6,443,000 registration.

At stake in the climactic finish of what has been one of the sharpest campaigns in many years were:

1. Control of the state government, with the race between Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Rep. Walter A. Lynch, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, regarded by many as a "tossup."

2. Election of a United States senator and 45 congressmen, with Senator Herbert H. Lehman, Democrat, believed to have the edge on Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley, Republican, whose famous letter provided the most discussed issue of the campaign.

3. Control of the nation's largest city, New York, with a tight finish indicated between Ferdinand Pecora, supported by the regular Democratic organizations, and Acting Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, who has made an amazing showing with his independent candidacy. Republican Candidate Edward R. Corsi was expected to run a poor third.

National attention has been focused on the New York elections, largely because Dewey, twice-defeated GOP candidate for President, is a key figure. His defeat would mean the crashing of a Republican symbol.

The effect the famed "Hanley Letter" will have on Dewey's chances for reelection is a moot point. The Democrats claim it showed the lieutenant governor was "bought off" to withdraw from the race for the GOP gubernatorial nomination so Dewey could run again.

Hanley wrote the letter to Rep. W. Kigland Macy explaining why he was stepping aside and stating that he would be able to "clean up my financial obligations" if he ran instead for the U. S. Senate.

The betting odds were they would emerge the victors. In Cleveland, bookies favored Lausche at 17 to 5 and Taft at 7 to 5.

Circleville Turnout May Set Record

All Ohio Taking Big Interest

Voting booths were jammed from the very start Tuesday as an estimated record of 3.5 million Ohioans cast their ballots to determine the fate of Republican Senator Robert A. Taft and Democrat Governor Frank J. Lausche.

If early tabulations may be used as an indicator, this year's election will nearly equal the 1948 presidential election in number of votes cast in Circleville.

According to a survey of the city polling places at noon Tuesday, a total of 1,289 ballots had been cast.

At noon during last year's election only a total of 1,006 voters had gone to the polls, indicating that this year's final vote may exceed the 1949 total of 2,803.

In addition, the early check compares favorably with figures taken as of noon on election day in 1948, the presidential election. IN 1948 A total of 1,710 Circleville voters had flocked to the polls as of noon while the total vote exceeded 3,600.

Precinct A of Ward one led in Tuesday's balloting with a total of 154, while Precinct A of Ward two was second with a total of 150.

Smallest number of votes cast as of noon Tuesday was registered by Precinct D of Ward Four, in which only 44 persons had voted.

Meanwhile, a total of 81 Circleville Township voters had travelled into Circleville at the noon check to "X" their ballots.

Complete tabulation of the voting as of noon Tuesday, listed by ward and precinct, follows:

Ward one, Precinct A, 154; B, 106; C, 127; D, 60; E, 75.
Ward two, Precinct A, 150; B, 104.
Ward three, Precinct A, 129; B, 120.
Ward four, Precinct A, 50; B, 73; C, 97; D, 44.

Circleville Township, 81. The state's chief election officer, Secretary of State Charles S. Sweeney, said the new office-type ballot apparently was causing some delay.

The new ballot, in use for the first time, blocks "straight ticket voting" with a single "X" and required instead, a mark in front of the name of each favored candidate.

Reports from the precincts at Sweeney's office indicated that women were playing a vital role in what is generally conceded to be the nation's most important off-year election. They were pouring in during the early hours to cast their ballots to determine if the two-term veterans, Taft and Lausche, were to be given new leases of official life or voted out of office.

The betting odds were they would emerge the victors. In Cleveland, bookies favored Lausche at 17 to 5 and Taft at 7 to 5.

Leg Iron Said Just Forgotten

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 7—When Alexandria police picked up Pete Lynch they thought they had a sure thing in an escaped prisoner, with evidence attached.

The evidence was a leg iron that Lynch was industriously attempting to file off when he was arrested. The cops were not inclined to believe his story that he had been released from a Virginia prison camp.

But when they checked with the camp they came up with red faces. Pete had been released, camp officials said. They explained about the leg iron that they "just forgot to take it off."

Our 'Dam' Is Only $200,000 Pile Of Dirt

Pickaway County has a $200,000 pile of dirt as a monument to incompetency out on Devil's Backbone to represent its proposed Memorial Lake and Park.

Officials of Ohio's state wildlife division in Columbus disclosed Tuesday that the earth-filled dam now constructed at the headwaters of Hargus Creek "has to be rebuilt."

The Pickaway project is one of six Ohio conservation projects which has turned sour and which will have to be constructed anew.

V. M. Flickinger, head of the department's division of parks, is now director of activities in reconstruction of the lake program in a recent shift of responsibility in the department.

"Your dam down there is unsafe and unusable," Flickinger said, "and will have to be rebuilt."

"My engineers report that, for one thing, the present dam does not have sufficient freeboard on top and might break loose in case of heavy pressure."

"In addition," he added, "the present spillway is bad and will have to be removed." Flickinger admitted that his engineers have "not had enough funds to go ahead and plan for a new structure" but that "there is no tendency to abandon the project."

Before the recent shift of responsibility to Flickinger, the conservation department was in charge of completing the six dams which have subsequently been termed "bad."

"Our chief difficulty right now is lack of funds," said Flickinger. "We plan to submit a request for more funds to the next legislature."

But, at the same time, the new chieftain refused to venture a guess as to when construction on a new dam here might start if funds are made available.

"We have six bad dams now," he said. "I'd be very reluctant to say anything about the Pickaway dam until everything is ready and safe."

He added that in one of the six bad dams, one broke loose and caused considerable damage.

"You've no idea how many claims for damage we have received because of that washed out dam," he said.

"Actually, you people have two things accomplished. You have the land for the lake and park and also the grubbing has been completed."

The man added that the situation which prevailed in the other department which has led to the headaches about dams "has been remedied."

"We have some very competent personnel here now," he said, "men who know dams and how they should be built."

It was pointed out, however, that while Flickinger passed the buck back to the era when the state conservation department was all under one head, that batch of personnel passes the buck back to the last Republican administration.

Nevertheless, the fact still remains that plans and specifications were approved by the state board of control which released the funds.

Originally, it was believed the project would cost about $150,000 in taxpayers' money. That figure was boosted to $200,000.

And now, John Q. Taxpayer will be expected to dig deeper to make a memorial lake and park out of what now is only a very expensive pile of dirt.

Circleville Turnout May Set Record

bor organizations of the entire nation could give him, is Democrat Joseph T. Ferguson, state auditor for 14 years. Lausche is being challenged by the six-term Republican state treasurer, Don H. Ebright, who has never been beaten in a political campaign.

The state's 10,387 polling places will be open until 6:30 p. m., but will not close their doors until the last voter in line at the closing hour is taken care of.

The weatherman promised cool but not cold weather—similar to Monday's—with a few clouds but no lengthy showers. Such weather is perfect to bring out all-time record balloting.

The previous high vote was the 3,376,239 ballots cast in the Roosevelt-Willkie battle of 1940, when the third term was an issue.

The "off-year"—that is to say, non-presidential year—record of 2,343,862 of 1946 is a lead-pipe cinch to be surpassed.

In addition to the senatorial and gubernatorial races, Ohio elects a full slate of state officers except state auditor; 22 district congressmen and one congressman-at-large; a full house of 135 state representatives and 35 state senators, and a majority of the seven judges on the state supreme court.

Locally, county commissioners and other officials are to be chosen and local issues decided. There are 27 wet-or-dry contests.

A TOTAL OF 276 school bond issues, totaling $97,074,404, are to be voted upon, and 560 school boards will present operating levies.

But the unchallenged feature attractions are the fight between Taft, son of a President, and Ferguson, son of a coal miner, and the battle between Lausche and Ebright.

Farm interest is intense, with all candidates remembering 1948, when the rural vote backed off from the Republicans and resulted in an unexpected Democratic majority.

Since farmers have enjoyed exceptionally mild weather this fall that has enabled them to keep ahead of their autumn chores, even a pleasant day that normally would keep them in the fields is not expected to keep them away from today's election.

The first use of Ohio's new office-type ballot which makes it impossible to vote a "straight ticket" party ballot with a single "X," emphasizes a factor that has been apparent all during the sizzling campaign. That is, that party lines will mean little in deciding the victors.

Even Lausche, a Democrat, has refused to say whether he would cast his senatorial ballot for Republican Taft or Ferguson, a member of his own political party.

The so-called "wise money" is on Taft and Lausche, despite their different political faiths. And the reason lies in Cleveland.

Cuyahoga County, which casts one-fifth of the total vote, is expected to give its independent-minded native son, Lausche, a smashing plurality more than sufficient to overcome any possible lead the GOP may be able to build up for Ebright downstate.

As for Taft, polls indicate he will do far better than he did six years ago, when he squeaked through to a second term after seeing a downstate lead of 114,000 shrink to a scant 17,740 because of the Cleveland area.

Even if he loses the county by 60,000 votes, as expected, he still could pile up a handy margin elsewhere to remain the nation's "Mr. Republican" in the U. S. Senate.

Leaving Scene Brings Hearing

Andrew Jacobs, 74, of West Water street, was held on $200 bond for grand jury action Monday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller on an accusation of leaving the scene of an accident.

Officer Rod List, who signed the affidavit, said the man failed to stop Oct. 10 after his auto allegedly collided with a parked car on South Washington street, owned by David Montgomery.

Localite, 23, To Get Parole

A 23-year-old Circleville man will be among 65 to be paroled from Ohio State Reformatory in Mansfield Dec. 20.

He is Charles Clevenger, sentenced to Mansfield July 7, 1949, for burglary and larceny. Clevenger escaped from the reformatory last year, was taken back Oct. 2, 1949, after he gave himself up to Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

Hart's Location Splits Ticket

HART'S LOCATION, N. H., Nov. 7—Hart's Location, a tiny White Mountain village of five homes which gave Republican Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey ten of its eleven votes two years ago, today split the ticket in the state election.

Villagers gave Republican U. S. Sen. Charles W. Tobey 6 votes to 4 for his Democratic rival, Emmett J. Kelley.

They voted 3 to 4 for Robert P. Bingham, Democratic candidate for governor, over the incumbent governor, Sherman Adams.

Firm Is Given $1 Million Loan

ATHENS, Nov. 7—The McBee Co., manufacturers of office machines and equipment here, has obtained loans worth $1 million.

The company announced that it has obtained a $500,000 loan from the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York and another of $400,000 from the New York Trust Co.

The company will use $394,000 to retire funded debt and $400,000 for new equipment.

Mrs. Lausche Is Superstitious

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7—Even a governor's wife can be superstitious—especially around Election Day.

Mrs. Jane Lausche, wife of Ohio's Governor Frank Lausche, viewed the famous Hope Diamond on display in Cleveland yesterday and said:

"I won't touch it. I'm that Irish and that superstitious."

Gov. Lausche runs for reelection today.

IN OTHER SENATE races, the Democrats have eleven sure victories—in Arkansas, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina (where two are elected), Rhode Island and South Carolina. They are also favored in Maryland, Nevada and Washington.

The Republicans seem sure to win Vermont, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Oregon and New Hampshire, though Democrats dispute the latter outcome. The GOP is also a favorite in Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, now held by Republicans, and in Pennsylvania where Gov. James H. Duff is expected to defeat Democrat Sen. Francis J. Myers.

4 Or 5 Acres Land Burned Late Monday

A minor "forest fire" in Salt Creek Township was extinguished Monday afternoon by the Circleville rural fire unit.

Fire Chief Palmer Wise said he was called at about 2:30 p. m. to the Richard Jones farm, where leaves, grass and brush were afire in a woods.

"I expect about four or five acres of woods was burned," the chief said. "It was pretty badly scorched when we got it out."

The city fire truck was called out at 11:10 a. m. Tuesday to put out a fire in the Willard Smith home, South Washington street.

Chief Wise said paper behind a stove in the kitchen had caught fire, causing small damage.

Jeanne Rose Given Position

Jeanne Rose of Deercreek Township was chosen to represent Chillicothe district at a new youth organization committee to be known as State Young Men and Women's Committee. This committee will make plans for the Older Rural Youth program.

Miss Rose was selected during the Jackson's Mill, W. Va., conference held over the weekend. Attending were Miss Rose, Barbara Defenbaugh, Art Dick and Cook Metzger. Miss Genevieve Alley, Pickaway County home demonstration agent, accompanied them along with Merle Thomas, associate county agent.

Deputies Eye Cincy Polls

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7—Sheriff's deputies were stationed at Hamilton County election polls today to spot any of the 45 persons now under indictment for false registration who may try to vote.

Twelve persons pleaded innocent yesterday to the fraudulent registration charges before Judge John W. Peck, criminal court jurist. The 12 were released on their own recognizance. However, Prosecutor Carson Hoy said most of the names on the false registrations were fictitious.

School A-Study Being Urged

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—Atomic energy reached the county level today in a letter from Summit County Commissioner John Poda, suggesting courses in A-bomb problems in the schools along with the three Rs.

Poda's letter went to State Education Director Clyde Hisong recommending that boards of education throughout the state start drawing up an atomic energy curriculum immediately.

Gas-Snitchers To Face Count By Local Cops

Three Zanesville men have been arrested for siphoning gasoline from a truck in Circleville.

City police said Tuesday the three men are being held in Lancaster, where they were arrested on request of the local department.

Merle Turner, a local coal truck operator, said he parked his vehicle near Main and Scioto streets early Tuesday.

An unidentified passing motorist spotted three men siphoning gasoline from the Turner truck and attempted to pursue them, police said, but he lost the race when stopped by a traffic light uptown.

The motorist then reported to the city police, who notified the Lancaster officers to be on the alert for the auto, travelling east from Circleville.

Accusations of petty larceny were expected to be filed against the trio late Tuesday or Wednesday.

$865 Judgment Awarded Here After Mishap

An $865 judgment against Louise Cyphers has been awarded to Leonard Collins by Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The lawsuit grew out of a two-car collision on U. S. Route 23 on Nov. 2, 1946. Plaintiff was a passenger in a car operated by Leroy H. Beery. Other car was driven by the defendant.

In his petition Collin asked for a judgment of $6,201.15. Judge Radcliff ruled he was entitled to recover $865 for loss of earnings, pain and suffering.

The case was heard Sept. 9 and 10, 1948, was submitted to the court for decision without intervention of a jury by agreement of the parties.

City Council Meet Expected To Be Brief

Circleville city council will meet Tuesday night, but, according to City Hall observers, the meeting will be as short as the solons can make it.

Reason advanced for the predicted haste—Tuesday night is election night.

Coming up for consideration by the lawmakers will be four bills to:

1. Pump more cash into the special police fund.
2. Provide $125 to buy food for prisoners in the city jail.
3. Supply cash for purchase of a police motorcycle radio.
4. Provide money to pay the city engineer's salary.

There is also a possibility that an ordinance requiring city foodhandlers to be licensed will be reported out of the health committee.

On former occasions when bills calling for more money in the special police fund have been presented, the lawmakers have protested loudly.

Whether they will take time out for oratory on election night is doubted by most observers.

Collins Estate Land Sale Gets Court Approval

Private sale of real estate in Darbyville, part of the Louisiana Collins estate, has been confirmed in Pickaway County probate court by Judge George D. Young.

The tract was sold to Delila Certain for $325 by Willis Lockhard, executor.

Also in probate court a petition to sell real estate in Commercial Point, part of the George Frettinger estate has been filed by Guy Cline, administrator. The property has been appraised at $1,300.

The Frettinger estate has been ruled not subject to inheritance tax. The Amanda Frettinger estate also has been ruled not subject to tax.

Samuel D. Geddes has been appointed administrator of the Millie M. Geddes estate, valued at $750, all in real estate.

Divorce Ends 1948 Marriage

A divorce has been granted to Norma J. Davis from Charles W. Davis in Pickaway County common pleas court. Both are minors.

Judge William D. Radcliff found the husband guilty of gross neglect, awarded custody of the couple's child to the wife, but gave the husband the right to visit the child on Sunday afternoons.

An agreement for division of the couple's property was approved by the judge. The couple was married Oct. 11, 1948, in Greenup, Ky.

Contempt Claimed By Woman Here

James William Burkhardt has been ordered to appear in Pickaway County common pleas court at 2 p. m. Friday to answer an accusation of contempt.

The accusation was filed by Nettie Mae Burkhardt alleging that the defendant failed to obey a former court order requiring him to pay $8 a week for support and $125 arrearage.

Announcing the air battle over Sinuiju on the Korean side of the Yalu river's estuary, Fifth Airforce headquarters said 16 F-51 Mustangs "made contact with enemy MIG-15 sweptback-wing jet fighters" Tuesday afternoon.

The dogfights between the Russian-type jets and the conventional American fighters raged from 2:25 to 3:50 p. m., the announcement related.

It said 16 F-80 Shooting Star jets "sent into the area to assist the propeller-driven (Mustang) fighters failed to make contact with the enemy which had withdrawn from the area by the time they arrived." The official bulletin continued:

"AFTER A FIRST flight of four F-51s had a fight with four MIG-15s and scored hits on three of them, to begin the air battle, four more F-51s from the same fighter-bomber group had contact with three enemy jets at two different times during the next hour. But neither friendly nor enemy aircraft were hit.

"A second flight of F-51s, after two brief skirmishes with enemy craft, sighted four more MIG-15s flying along the Manchurian side of the Yalu river, but took no action because of orders not to cross the international boundary."

The Fifth Airforce bulletin said this same group of Mustang pilots also observed six more MIG-15s taking off from the Red Chinese airfield at Antung, Manchuria.

At about 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, the announcement said, four Mustangs of the 18th Fighter-Bomber group "were attacked by four of the enemy jets five miles east of Sinuiju." Twenty minutes later another four Mustangs were attacked by four MIG-15s.

"None of our aircraft was damaged and none of our pilots made any claims in this brief encounter," the bulletin said, adding:

"The latter Mustang pilots stated that the enemy aircraft came across the Yalu river from Manchuria and returned across the river after the attack."

Communist Gains Seen Hurting Demos

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Political leaders were watching the news from Korea today for last minute affects of Communist Chinese - Korean counterattacks on the tempers of the nation's voters.

The recent rally by the Red allies beclouded at least temporarily the political advantage which administration Democrats believed they had gained from the United Nations sweep through North Korea.

Political lieutenants who do not normally believe elections are affected by events of the final two or three days, showed concern about the surprise Chinese Red intervention.

They noted that news of the fighting near the Manchurian border had been overshadowed by the assassination attempt on President Truman. Some observers felt the two grim events might balance each other off in the effect upon "on the fence" voters.

A RECORD turnout of off-year voters is expected today, when the nation will fill 36 Senate seats from 33 states, elect an entire House of Representatives and pick 33 governors, plus other state and local officials.

The big fight is for congressional control, with the outcome in many decisive contests close. The best informed political soothsayers are frankly "guessing" on a handful of Senate seats. Few observers, however, expected the Senate or House to change control from the Democrats, barring a GOP landslide.

The Senate is now divided 54 Democrats to 42 Republicans. The most optimistic GOP forecasts suggest a gain of five seats. To win control, the Republicans must hold their own and gain seven Democratic seats.

Democratic spokesmen are more optimistic now than they were a month or six weeks ago. They hint at surprising gains in states like Idaho and Connecticut, where a few weeks ago Democratic candidates were the underdogs in pre-election speculation.

One informed Democratic campaign official said he now expects the Democrats to show a net gain in Senate strength. House campaign officials have been more cautious. Democrats have predicted little shift in strength, not more than 10 or 15 seats either way.

Their latest estimate is for a possible Democratic net gain of five seats; this has not happened in an off-year election since 1934.

Meade Youth Said 'Deficient'

Donald E. Neff, 19, of Meade has been declared mentally deficient by Lima State Hospital officials.

The youth was sent to Lima by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff for a 30-day observation period after he pleaded guilty to a Pickaway grand jury indictment for arson.

It is probable that Neff will be returned to Lima. He was brought here Thursday.

Assassination Case Going To Grand Jury

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The government will ask a grand jury tomorrow for a first-degree murder indictment against Oscar Collazo, just one week after he attempted to assassinate President Truman.

District Court Judge Edward A. Tamm said a court-appointed attorney would defend the Puerto Rican Nationalist charged with the fatal shooting of White House Police Pvt. Leslie Coffelt.

The office of U. S. Attorney General Moarris Fay said 23 witnesses will be called to testify for the government. The grand jury is expected to look into the entire case and it is possible that more witnesses will be summoned.

Collazo agreed to be defended by a court-appointed attorney because, he said, he has no money and no friends have come to his aid. His wife is being held under $50,000 bond in New York, charged with conspiracy in the plot.

Collazo is recovering from a bullet wound suffered when he and Grisello Torresola attempted to storm Blair House and assassinate the President last Wednesday. Torresola and Coffelt were killed in the gunfight and two other policemen were wounded.

Ashville

Mrs. Till Harris returned to her home at Byhalia Sunday after a week's visit with her son, Walter L. Harris and family. She returned home with Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Harris and family who also were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harris.

Miss Judith Fausnaugh represented the Ashville graduating class of 1950 in presenting a film strip projector to the Ashville schools Monday afternoon at an assembly program featuring the Bently Trio who entertained with marimba music and various national dances. The projector was given by the 1950 graduating class from money left over after the annual Washington D. C. trip last Spring.

Mrs. Guy Sark is recovering at Mercy hospital following recent surgery.

Claude J. Kraft entered St. Francis hospital Sunday for a complete physical checkup. He has been ill for the last week.

THIS IS PROGRESS?

A NEW YORK auction gallery is selling for an estate nine complete suits of armor and an assortment of, helmets, breastplates, gauntlets, spurs and 16th century engraved halberds.

In medieval times, when warfare was hand-to-hand combat, an armored knight had to be hoisted on his armored horse by a crane. The world has progressed beyond all that. Now the warrior leaps into his armor, steps on the starter and the whole thing rumbles off on endless tracks that can climb over or batter down almost every obstacle—except another tank.

The GI in his tank is not much safer than the knight in his armor. The steel is stronger, but the power of antitank weapons has kept pace. The knight had to worry about nothing except another guy with a lance. The bazooka was still part of the progress of the future.

Knightly armor has at least one advantage over the tank. It makes a more romantic decoration for a baronial hall. Where is the collector of 2400 going to put a row of tanks, and won't they look pretty terrible? Of course, the world is making such rapid progress in military matters that by 2400 there may not be anyone around to collect anything, and there may be nothing to collect.

At any rate, if Macaulay's traveler comes from New Zealand (that man who shall "in the midst of a vast solitude take his stand on a broken arch of London Bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's") he may see in the tank of 1950 only what man today sees in the armor of 1550, the triumph of brutality over civilization.

Certainly he may doubt that in most matters of enduring importance there was much progress between 1550 and 1950.

WHAT A SUMMER

THE PHILOSOPHY of moderation seems to be continually losing ground to epidemics of runaway tempers and uncurbed appetites. Latest example is Indian summer, if that is what it was, which exchanged calmness for meteorological carousal and went a-whooping down the warpath of excess.

Any spell of warm, quiet, hazy weather occurring in the fall may be termed Indian summer, although some authorities say this seasonal mirage comes later in the season. Such a season, says one encyclopedia, is characterized by "calm, translucent atmosphere and mellow sunshine."

This time, however, instead of calm and mellow atmosphere, Indian summer blew its top, established heat records and brought muttered suggestions that it be given back to the Indians.

These Days

Dear Harold Stassen:

I have long pondered your letter to Joe Stalin. I am sure that you were sincere when you wrote it, and I know that you took counsel of many wise men.

Yet, to me, your letter to Uncle Joe represents more enthusiasm than wisdom.

In the first place, the responsibility for the conduct of our international relations is vested in the President of the United States and his secretary of state. They cannot shirk that responsibility. Unless a citizen is delegated by the President to negotiate with a foreign power, he has no authority. Whatever he says is private conversation. There is even a law forbidding citizens to take such a task on themselves.

We want to hold the President and the secretary of state responsible for the business that the Constitution delegates to them. If their policies are sound and come out right, they are deserving of commendation. If their policies are wrong and come out awry, we should criticize and condemn them.

It seems to me that in this respect, all you can do is muddy the waters. It is like that bipartisan foreign policy which so many Republicans thought would save the world. The most that was bipartisan about it was the sharing of blame for some of the most egregious errors in our history. No Republican was consulted with regard to the abandonment of Chiang Kai-shek. Great Britain was consulted, but not the Republican Party; yet the Republicans have to share the blame for it—all except those who denounced it.

In the second place, we are at war with Soviet Russia. Stalin is our enemy. American boys are dying in Korea because Stalin is our enemy.

Now, you might go technical on me and say that we are not at war with Stalin at all, but that the United Nations is unifying Korea.

Please don't say that to me!

Neither the South nor the North Koreans ever produced a fighting force that even remotely resembled the power that the North Koreans are displaying. This was a Russian job, and in Seoul, the Koreans followed the Stalingrad pattern. And from their arms, equipment, bombs and mines we know that the Russians used them, as they are using the Viet Minh in French Indo-China, the Armenians in Iran, and so on.

So, we are at war with Stalin. I wonder what you would have thought of a private American citizen who, during our recent efforts to save the world for democracy, entered upon personal negotiations with Hitler or Mussolini?

Talking with Stalin may be more fun than a conversation with Hitler, although Stalin, back in 1917 at the Smolny Institute, seemed to be a dull, self-centered person with few social graces. Still, he may have developed over the years and Elliott Roosevelt, who should be a connoisseur of companionship, apparently found his society delectable.

It is said General MacArthur did not know of the existence of the atomic bomb until one was dropped on Japan. It sounds plausible. The general has never been in the confidence of Russian spies.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

MICHAEL was affronted by the phrasing of Liza's promise that she would not marry him. He said belligerently, "Just for the record, what's wrong with me?"

"My dear Michael, I told you I had an engagement."

"Once over lightly," he said. "I implore you."

She looked at him thoughtfully. "You," she answered, "are no Tyrone Power. Neither are you Rex Harrison."

He reared up in his chair. "Is glamor or something equally nauseating a qualification?" he demanded.

"No, but it would help. You dress badly," she went on. "You are rude and opinionated—insufferably egotistic, irresponsible, unpendable."

"You sound like Abby."

"Improvident," she continued equally, "and inconsiderate. Also a poor provider, having no visible means of support."

"I can always earn a living," said Michael, annoyed.

"No doubt, as you are bright enough, in a superficial way. But you have no stability."

Michael said, after a moment, "I believe you mean it."

"I do," she said sincerely. And she did.

"Well, in that case, we know where we stand. I think it's the foundation of a beautiful friendship."

Liza regarded him without affection. She said, "Have you thought of consulting a psychiatrist?"

"Often. Never had the money. Besides, I have diagnosed myself."

"What were your findings?"

"I have a horror of being pursued."

"Surely you know that, in the sense you mean, all men are pursued; not only by women, but by their own weaknesses?"

"That's the trouble. I'm afraid I'm easily caught up with, so I run faster than most. But as the White Queen pointed out, it takes a lot of running to remain in the same place. I have a natural inclination toward beautiful women. I am easily deluded, given to making rash promises. And also, a chivalrous man."

Liza hooted, like a baby owl.

"It's true. I—Well, never mind."

or ceremonies and he was like all these New York kids—poised, girlish, taking everything in stride. He had to hold me up, on stage while I shook and tried to sing songs. Then there was Ted Weems' band and a couple of young, un-famous singers named Marilyn Maxwell and Perry Como. They were real pros, and they helped me wonderfully."

WHEN THE THREE WEEKS WERE UP, the Sheridan fled back to the coast and she, said, promptly went around beefing to acquaintances "This is New York?" Three weeks at the Strand had left her far from impressed. "I hated the drudgery of it," she told me, "and personally I doubt that it improved my following at all."

Since then, Miss Sheridan—who, incidentally, is the same age as I, and between us we'll never see 70 again—has come back to us often, and time has softened the blow. For example, she likes New York because it is a place where she can go to the movies by throwing on a raincoat and slipping around the corner.

In California, she lives in the Valley (the San Fernando Valley, you fool, is there another?), which is 600 miles from anywhere, roughly. So she never sees movies in California—and she loves them.

She goes to the theater a great deal when she hits Gotham and she likes to eat in a half-dozen select places like the Marguery, Twenty-One, Dinty Moore's and Bertelotti's.

She rides hansom cabs through Central Park and once in a while she does a little shopping, although she discovers that shopgirls here and in Los Angeles are the same—they abandon waiting on her and promptly call all the other salesgirls over to look at her.

But mostly, if Ann has a few days free when she's in New York—she pulls up stakes and goes to Connecticut. There's a little lake up there, and she will loaf as long as possible before work drags her back to the big town. "I am," she sums up, "strictly country."

WHERE MISS SHERIDAN STANDS ON THE LADDER of amour now, I was gentleman enough not to ask. She has, you know, been divorced from both Edward Norris and George Brent and for 10 years the columnists have been guessing that she was married to press agent Steve Hannagan. She has let them guess.

Meanwhile, she is remodeling a Valley farmhouse on three and a half acres of ground, but strikes by assorted unions have held up the project endlessly. For a year she has been living with the family of her secretary, Martha.

Her latest film is something called Woman on the Run, and in it she displays the talents she did in her recent Stella, a lovely bit of sacrilege, she may make her mark as an actress yet.

But living down that Oomph-Girl thing, even after all these years, still is a task. Even for someone from Texas, to whom impossible things are only slightly difficult.

I fall in love, or an approximation thereof. My valentine wants to settle for a deep freeze and a ranch-type house on Long Island, so I start running. And I don't like the results. I mean, women who cry and make scenes, women who cling—

She said, "I can't be hearing this. It isn't true. Yet, I dare say it is. I've known for some time that men think like that, but I never expected to hear one admit it, especially to a woman."

"But," he said triumphantly, "you assured me that I need not regard you as a woman!"

"So I did." She looked at him, smiling. "I begin to like you, in a gruesome sort of way. I still can't believe that my parting shot from the curb yesterday was sufficient to put you into a crisis of the nerves. There must be something else on your mind, something with enough weight to make it crack."

"Oh, all right. It's a girl."

"You amaze me. She amazes me. I see light. In fact, I'm blinded by it. Who is she?"

"I told you about her."

"Little Miss Research, your fellow genius? Five feet eight, one hundred and twenty-five pounds. Tell me more."

"We live in the same building," he said, hunted, "she's a very—well, you know what I mean. Cooks too. At first we went out to dinner and such; then she began whipping downstairs with a plate of cookies or what and, finally, we took to eating at her place..."

"That had? I am sorry for you, Michael."

"I'm sorry for me too."

"Don't you want to marry the girl?"

He shouted, "I don't want to marry any girl!"

"All right. I'll make a bargain with you. I'll get you out of this if you promise to assist me in my own little—affairs."

"Really, Liza?" he said, aghast. And then brightened. "How could you?"

"She'd just be jealous and more determined than ever."

"Oh, all right," said Liza, "more and more you betray yourself. What is the superlative of heel? I can get you out of it, Michael, and she won't be jealous. Just don't ask how; and for heaven's sake, when she and I are talking, girl to girl."

"That's true. I—Well, never mind."

FOLKS OF FAME—GUESS THE NAME

1—He was an American artist, born in Columbus, O., Aug. 12, 1882. He was educated at Ohio State university, but moved to New York in 1904, where he studied art and became instructor at the Art Students' league. He also taught at the Chicago Art institute. His drawings, lithographs and paintings include many illustrations of sports subjects. He was criticized for his force and power as depicted in his work, which was called brutal. However, a year after his death in New York City, Jan. 8, 1925, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, accorded him a retrospective memorial exhibit—the highest honor that can be bestowed on an American painter. Among his works are Jean and Anna, Emma and Her Children, Portrait of My Mother, Polo Game, Stag at Sharkeys—in the Cleveland Museum of Art; Men of the Docks, Up the Hudson and North River. What was his name?

2—"One of the most powerful embodiments of the creative genius of the 19th century," has been said of this man. He was a French diplomat and engineer, born at Versailles, on Nov. 19, 1805. In 1825 he entered the consular service, became assistant vice consul at Lisbon, Portugal, and later Tunis, Northern Africa. In 1832 he was sent to Alexandria, Egypt, where he became interested in an effort to build a canal at Suez. On Nov. 20, 1854, he was authorized to pierce the isthmus of the Suez; the first blow of the pickaxe was given by him, on April 25, 1859. The canal was opened Nov. 17, 1869. At the time, the French government appointed him head of the enterprise to construct the Panama canal. For eight years he struggled with the project, but had to admit defeat. He died at La Chenaie, Dec. 7, 1894. Who was he?

A Very Puzzling Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MULTIPLE sclerosis is still a puzzling disease of the nervous system. Damage is never confined to one area but appears in rather hit-or-miss fashion in a number of different and, often, widely separated areas at the same time. It may be slight at first or severe from the very start. Hence, symptoms are numerous and varied.

In one individual the disease may begin suddenly with apparently rather minor discomforts, such as blurring of the eyesight, tingling in the arms or legs, and clumsiness in the use of the hands. Thereafter the patient may feel well for weeks or months before further damage is done and further symptoms appear.

Severe Paralysis

In another person it may come on suddenly with severe paralysis, severe muscle weakness, widespread numbness and tingling, blurring in one or both eyes, and speech and bladder difficulties.

In some cases, the condition grows steadily worse. In others, there may be periods when the progress of the disorder seems to be checked for a time. As a general rule, the diagnosis can be made on the basis of the symptoms, together with an examination showing definite damage to the nervous system.

Form of Treatment

As yet, there is no satisfactory form of treatment for multiple sclerosis. However, there are a number of things which can be done that may help in checking the progress of the condition. These include keeping up the patient's nutrition by giving him a well-balanced diet, including all of the necessary vitamins. A warm climate and the avoidance of chilling and strain, both physical and mental, are helpful. Physical measures of treatment, such as heat and massage, also may have value. Infections in the teeth, sinuses, tonsils, or elsewhere in the body should be eliminated.

Two types of drugs are now used in treating multiple sclerosis. One group includes those which, it is thought, may help prevent further damage to the nervous system, while the other group is employed to help relieve symptoms produced by nervous system damage already present.

Relax Blood Vessels

In the first group are preparations which dilate and relax the blood vessels. One such preparation is histamine, which is given under the skin or into a vein over long periods of time. With this treatment no patients have been cured, but improvement has been reported in many instances. Another preparation which is used is known as tetra-ethyl-ammonium chloride. This is given by injection into a muscle. It would appear that, in more than 300 patients treated, this preparation did not affect the chronic symptoms of the disease or prevent further attacks, but it did relieve symptoms in acute attacks.

In the second group are the preparations known as anticoagulants, which slow down the clotting of the blood, and have been reported to help prevent relapses. The drug used is known as dicumarol.

Large Doses

The administration of large doses of vitamins does not seem to be of any particular help in multiple sclerosis. Vitamin B-12, both in large and small doses, over long periods of time, have led to slight improvement, but the exact benefits of this treatment have not as yet been determined.

The drugs employed to relieve symptoms are those which tend to lessen muscle spasm. Such drugs as neostigmine and meprobazine have been used for this purpose.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. A.: What is the difference between low blood pressure and anemia?

Answer: Low blood pressure means that the blood is not being pumped through the arteries with the normal amount of force. Anemia refers to a deficiency or lessening in the coloring matter or in the number of red cells in the blood.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

This is the day that gives us the opportunity to show whether we are men or morons.

And the test is whether we will be as proud 10 years from now as we are of our vote today.

The type of voter who has been trying to vote himself into prosperity for the last dozen years doesn't bear much resemblance to the type that created America's real prosperity.

And the fellow who takes his thinking from somebody else has surrendered the only thing of value he was born with... his brain.

No matter who is elected we seem to be able to muddle through and the stars don't seem to show any change at the moment.

But they said Rome couldn't fall either and what a mess that ended up!

Anyway it's nice to know that we still have the privilege of a secret ballot... even if we elect the wrong guys.

NEW YORK—First Impressions are so terribly important, so the social arbiters tell us, and if they can be trusted, I guess the city of New York can fold up its little tent and steal away into a subway tunnel, as far as Miss Ann Sheridan is concerned.

It has been 11 years since Miss Sheridan came here first, fresh from having made 26 movies in two years. Today she draped a neat ankle over an over-stuffed chair in her Hotel Chatham suite and told me of that first visit.

She had on a gray suit, a black blouse with two diamond clips at the neckline and a monstrous pearl-and-diamond-and-platinum ring. Except for that ring, it was easy to see why the Sheridan twice was named one of the Ten Best Dressed Women.

"It was," she said, shuddering a little, "right about the time I was getting that Oomph-Girl buildup. I had made all of these movies, the majority of them Bs, and the studio decided it would help my budding popularity for me to do a personal appearance thing. So I came into the Strand theater here for three weeks—five shows most days and six on Saturdays."

I am not sure what the fair Miss Sheridan suspected was in store for her, but I know she thought she could see at least a little of the biggest city in the world. All the starlets do when they blow into Manhattan for those P. A. routines.

The view that Ann got was, roughly, about the same as they all get—a movie house dressing room, a hotel and maybe one lunch at Twenty-One in three weeks. Try it yourself some time, that five-day stuff.

"In addition to which," Miss Sheridan recalled morosely, "I was scared stiff. They had a young lad named Earl Oxford as the master

Heart Murmur In Child Not Something To Cause Alarm, Specialist Says

Culture League Hears Address

"Do not be alarmed if your child has a heart murmur," members of Circleville Child Culture League were told at their annual guest night meeting. Speaker was Dr. Oliver Hosterman, member of the staff of Children's hospital, Columbus.

Addressing the league as it met in the home of Mrs. Marshall Winner, the heart specialist declared that:

"More often than not, most children have a heart murmur at some time or other in their lives."

Dr. Hosterman told the symptoms of rheumatic fever as high fever, aching joints, rapid pulse and nodules of the joints.

"Not all symptoms are present in every case," he warned. "Hospitalization where the proper drugs may be administered is the first step to be taken in event of the disease."

Dr. Hosterman spoke of the work being done on "blue babies" in Columbus. Children who could barely sit up are now running and playing in a perfectly normal fashion, he reported.

Dr. Hosterman asked that Child Culture League give his fee to Florence Nightingale cottage, Columbus.

Mrs. Winner was assisted by Mrs. James Callahan, Mrs. Larry Curl, Mrs. Robert Barnes and Mrs. Clark Martin.

Vanishing Bridge Party Series Gets Underway

Mrs. P. C. Routzahn of Northridge road held the initial affair when Child Conservation League started a series of vanishing bridge parties Friday evening.

Four tables made up Mrs. Routzahn's 16-guest party. Each of these guests will in turn give a two-table bridge party and each guest at the two-table bridge party will give a one-table bridge party—all before Thanksgiving.

Child Conservation League will use the proceeds from vanishing bridge parties for their Pickaway County Children's Home project.

On the committee arranging the parties were Mrs. Joseph Adkins Jr., Mrs. Clarence Ray Barnhart, Mrs. Robert Hedges and Mrs. Routzahn.

Guests at the party who will have two table bridge parties of their own are Mrs. Elliot Barnhill, Mrs. Joseph Bell, Mrs. Robert Brehmer Jr., Mrs. Norbert Cochran, Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Jasper Hedges, Mrs. William Heffner, Mrs. Ned Griner, Mrs. J. I. Smith, Mrs. Lincoln Mader, Mrs. Lemuel Weldon, Mrs. Henry Reid, Miss Margaret Boggs and Mrs. George Young.

Burlike-Smith Nuptials Read In Chillicothe

Miss Imogene Burlike wore a gown of traditional white slipper satin cut along classically simple lines when she became the bride of Robert W. Smith of Columbus Friday evening in Chillicothe Trinity Methodist church.

The Rev. N. C. Bangham officiated at the double ring ceremony which followed a half hour of music presented by Ralph Haney, soloist, and Miss Betty Bethel, organist.

The bride is the daughter of Charles T. Burlike of Clay Street and the late Mrs. Burlike. Mr. Smith is the grandson of Luther Smith of South Bloomingville.

The ceremony was read before an altar banked with palms and ferns interspersed with lighted white tapers in seven branch candelabras and a basket of white gladioli. White satin bows marked the family pews.

William T. Burlike, brother of the bride, gave his sister in marriage.

Mrs. Steve Dowler of Circleville was matron of honor. The brides matron was Mrs. Richard Routt of Kingston. Miss Carolyn Sue Burlike, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Glen Hartsaugh of Laurelville, cousin of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Hugh Lively of Columbus, Steve Dowler of Circleville, Wesley Wood Jr., brother-in-law of the bride, and Tom Hartsaugh of Laurelville, cousin of the groom.

For going away, the bride wore a gray gabardine suit with black accessories and a corsage of white roses from her wedding bouquet. Following a trip through the north the couple will make a home at 562 Franklin Avenue, Columbus.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Chillicothe high school. Mr. Smith, a graduate of Laurelville high school and Ohio State university, is employed by the United States Forest Service in Columbus.

After considerable discussion, it was voted to form two guilds.

The guilds will receive official numbers at their next meetings.

Officers for both guilds were elected. Mrs. Jesse Hildenbrand is chairman of one. Other officers are Mrs. Robert Young, vice-chairman; Mrs. Darl McAfee, secretary; and Mrs. Gerald Patrick, treasurer.

Mrs. Harry Wright heads the other new guild. Other officers are Mrs. Kenneth Shepler, vice-chairman; Mrs. Curtis Bower, secretary; and Mrs. Hoyt Timmons, treasurer.

WARREN BAKER—NOT SICK ONE DAY

3 Local Rural Mail Carriers Due To End 30 Years Service Same Day

Three of Circleville Postoffice's rural mail carriers will complete 30 years of such federal service on the same day—Nov. 15.

They are Warren Baker, Paul Betz and William Betts Jr.

Each received a permanent appointment as rural mail carrier Nov. 15, 1920, each is "going just as strong" today as he was in 1920.

The fact that the trio started together and has nearly finished the 30-year stint together is considered remarkable.

But even more remarkable are their individual absentee records. Betts has taken eight days of sick leave during all those nearly 30 years. Betz had been credited with only a few more than that.

But Baker's record is probably the finest in the state, perhaps in the nation—he has yet to take one day of sick leave since he started making the rounds of rural homes.

EACH MAIL carrier is allowed ten days sick leave a year. It can accumulate so that Baker will have a grand total of 300 days due him Nov. 15.

All three men have been on the job numerous times when they could have qualified for sick leave, but they "stuck it out."

Betts, back in his younger days in the 1920s, almost was sent home to bed by the postmaster on a couple of occasions.

He appeared for duty once with a plaster cast encasing his whole chest. A couple of other times, his face was a mass of patches. Betts likes football and back in the 1920s, he was considered a better-than-average ball-toter. He played semipro ball for the old Clarksburg and Williamsport teams, came to work occasionally with cracked ribs and fractured nose.

In addition to their identical rural mail service, these three men are similar in other respects.

Each is a member of the Rural Letter Carriers' Association, each is a veteran of World War I, each is a past commander of Circleville post American Legion, each is a member of the local Elks lodge (Baker and Betz are past exalted rulers), each is a grandfather.

Their ages are varied, however. Betz is past his 55th birthday. Baker will be 55 next year while Baker is the "baby" of the trio—he is only 51.

Each has been paying into the Postoffice Department pension fund since he started working for Uncle Sam. Pensions are available after 30 years service and at age 55. They get no Social Security.

BETZ, CAN retire Nov. 15, but intends staying on for a few years. At age 60, the pension is more attractive. Betts and Baker probably will keep on the job, too, for several more years.

Times have changed for these three veteran rural mail carriers the same as in every other profession.

Back in 1920, there were eight routes out of Circleville. There are only four now. The fourth carrier is Rockford Brown who, while a veteran postal employee, has been on a rural route about seven or eight years.

When Baker, Betts and Betz started out in 1920, each drove a high-wheeled Model T open touring car.

Baker drove 25 miles a day then, serviced about 100 rural boxes. Now, he drives 60 miles, is responsible for getting mail into 375 boxes.

Betts drove 28 miles in 1920 to deliver mail to 130 boxes. Now he has 60 miles and 260 boxes.

Betz had 90 boxes in 1920 and covered 24 miles. Today's schedule calls for traveling 53 miles to reach 194 boxes.

And back in the 1920s, those Model T cars saw only gravel roads, filled either with numerous "washboards" and chuckholes or piled high with freshly-poured gravel—gravel, that is, with coconut-size rocks included.

And flat tires—a rural carrier could count on fixing at least one a day. His garage was a maze of extra parts for he was continually burning out timers and coils.

went from 1924 to 1942 with no increase in pay. They are paid solely on a mileage basis.

The ten-year period of 1920-30 and the early years of World War II are considered to have been their "toughest" years. Wages in other trades boomed, but the mailman took the same old stipend.

In the 30 years, have the people changed?

The three men are generally agreed that there has been some change, but not too much. More education has changed attitudes some, but then only for the better.

Biggest change has been in reading habits. All three men are agreed that one day's mail in 1950 is as large as a whole week's delivery 30 years ago.

There is one change the three men talk about but only reluctantly.

It is that back in the 1920s, patrons had a warm feeling toward the postal men which was demonstrated with gifts. Many a batch of sausage, sweet corn and fruit has been left in the box marked "for the mailman."

But the old generation is passing, the gifts still come but now only infrequently. The younger generation inherited the old farm, but the old spirit toward the mailman apparently didn't get passed on.

Have these 30 years been good years? Ask any one of the three and he will tell you that if he had to do it all over again—yes, he would be a rural mail carrier.

Kiwanis Leaders Get Instruction On Proper Public Speaking Form

Circleville Kiwanis Club was called to order in the usual fashion Monday evening in Pickaway County Club.

The vice-president, acting in the absence of the president, did the opening honors. There was the invocation. A committee man, who had spoken previously, being corrected for faulty speech and platform mannerism.

The speaker was a man who should know proper speech—Dr. Roland Matthies, professor of public speaking at Wittenberg college, Springfield.

Pointing out flaws of those who spoke previously gave Dr. Matthies the pivot for his talk.

His theme was that regardless of whether a person is speaking to an audience of a thousand or just one, he should constantly be alert against poor impressions, faulty diction and untidy appearance.

DR. MATTHIES suggested that his listeners each go home "and take a good look at ourself in natural position before a large mirror." He added:

"Observe that slouch, those drooped shoulders. Then stand erect, take our hands out of our pockets and let them hang at the side as they should.

"Then start talking—give yourself a one-minute talk on any subject. Cup your hands over your ears and listen to yourself. Listen for a twang in your speech, a drawl or a mum-

"Get all the grunts and ahs and er's out of your speech. Then, when you are called upon to make a simple announcement before a group, you will be ready. Know what you are going to talk about before you start. Make it pointed and convincing and brief."

Dr. Matthies explained that all students in Wittenberg college are required to take a short course in public speaking. He said that first assignment in that class is to give a one-minute talk on any subject.

Most of the efforts are painful, he reported. But, he declared, after all the students have gone through their individual "torture" they become aware that they had had a new experience, that the listener must be a part of every talk.

HE STRESSED the use of the hands. Explaining that in prehistoric days men did nearly all of their "speaking" with their hands and used the voice primarily for grunts, he said it was not until man devised a written language that he started communicating with his voice.

Since then, he said, man has not used his hands in speaking other than to hide them in pockets. He demonstrated the many gestures available which aid the spoken voice in giving a more intelligent picture to the listener.

He said that public speakers first must be "at ease." He said that to the Army "at ease" means, in part, "keeping the right foot in place." To the public speaker it should mean "keeping the foot in the right place—not in the mouth."

CARRIERS traded in Model Ts about once a year in the 1920s. Today's auto generally can last two years. And changing a tire nowadays is a rarity and takes only five or ten minutes.

The rural carriers believe that if any of them should retire and a civil service examination was announced for the post, "the high school auditorium would be filled with applicants."

But the job has not always been attractive. Rural carriers

Verdi's Opera Steals Show From Show-Offs

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The solid, soiled Metropolitan Opera House wears a new face of dignity today—after a sparkling opening night performance that featured more high-style than hi-jinks.

Last night, under the glaring lights of TV cameras, the usual publicity-seeking first nighters did their spectacular stuff. But on the stage, an even more spectacular production of Verdi's almost-forgotten "Don Carlo" stole the show from the show-offs.

Rudolf Bing, the slender, shy-faced new general manager who revised and revived an old opera for its first performance in 27 years, became the man of the hour.

He was even bigger than diamonds.

The aforementioned diamonds—commonly the focus of attention on Met first nights—were prominent on prominent people. So were emeralds, orchids, camera-ready smiles and ranch, wild and silverblu minks.

But it became obvious by the end of three intermissions, when most of the audience kept returning to their seats in the famous horseshoe (rather than remaining in the plush sherry bar, as is their wont on first nights) that the opera itself was too good to miss.

Labor Cabinet Upheld Again

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Britain's Labor government emerged safely today from another Conservative attempt to unseat the regime of Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

The House of Commons last night beat down by a vote of 300 to 288 a Conservative amendment to the speech by King George VI opening the latest session of parliament.

The amendment to the speech, written for the king by the party in power, expressed regret over the absence of any "resolve to insure a steady increase in the rate of house-building up to at least 300 thousand houses a year."

Sokolsky's These Days

Nevertheless, what could you say to him? You would, according to your letter, tell him that the United States will not go broke. Such bad news could not please him. Nor could you give him any guarantees one way or the other. This Korean war is costing us about $10 billion. How many tens of billions do we have to load on top of our national debt of $256 billion? Stalin can count, too.

Then you will tell him that we love peace. Now, precisely, what do you think the United States would gain by that?

General Douglas MacArthur is so much wiser. He reads the Lord's Prayer to the tune of "Praise The Lord And Pass The Ammunition." I bet that Joe understands that perfectly. He knows that a couple of swift kicks in the underside will de-

LOOKING AHEAD With Charles Weidinger

Are you worried about living too long—or not long enough? Many people are worried about one or the other. Some even about both.

Yes—the fear of outliving life savings after advancing age has forced them into retirement is common to many elderly people. And the fear of what will happen to wife and family should death occur before sufficient money has been saved, gravely concerns many thoughtful young men.

Both of these fears can be removed forever by carefully planned life insurance. Planned life assurance brings peace-of-mind in youth and old age. It is a blessing throughout life. You cannot afford to be without

Urbana Corn Yield Record Try Is Flop

URBANA, Nov. 7.—Ohio's try for a world's record corn crop is a definite "bust" today.

The half-acre plot which was planted near here and expected—with the right amount of "coaxing"—to raise an average of 300 bushels per acre turned out only 150.

The experiment started last Spring as an exhibit for the National Plowing Matches and National Soil Conservation Field Days this Fall.

The world's record crop is 224.2 bushels per acre and the crop fell far short of that.

E. P. Reed, Ohio State university extension agronomist, helped supervise the "pampering" of the corn plot. As for the failure, he said:

"At the time of the harvest (Oct. 19 and 25) an average of 55 to 60 percent of the stalks were broken over—the most severe stalk rot damage I have ever observed."

A rainfall of 39.7 inches is believed to have been one of the determining factors in the stalk rot process.

Milestone in a Career!

We see it happen over and over again—and it's one of the greatest satisfactions we enjoy in this happy business of selling Cadillac cars.

It's when a man comes into possession of his first Cadillac—and we see the wonderful things it does for him.

We see his happiness as he places his order—not as the result of a sudden inspiration, but because he has gradually reached the conclusion that he has earned the right to enjoy the unquestioned best.

And then we see him on that happy day when his car is available for delivery—and he settles himself so proudly behind the wheel.

He's a little quizzical, we sometimes note. Could it be, he wonders, that he has been anticipating a bit too much? And then he's out in the street—headed for home the long way 'round.

Those are thrilling days that follow.

There's the first long ride with the family... the first trip to the office... and the time he learns, in an emergency, that his car is worth its whole price in safety alone.

And then, almost before he knows it, the odometer registers a thousand miles—and he's back to tell us all about it. And, perhaps, to grumble a little bit at giving it up—even for a little while!

Yes, it's a priceless privilege to watch all this. Makes a man feel that he's doing good.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreich
INS Foreign Director

Two more ambitious attempts to iron out the economic, social and military problems of Western Europe to create an impregnable defense against Communism are being made today.

One is a new meeting of the Council of Europe under chairmanship of Italian Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza in Rome.

The other is the World Trade Congress assembled in Torquay, Eng., for the most determined effort ever made to simplify the tariff and customs barriers, and other economic complications which have bedeviled European relationships for decades.

Significantly, Germany is represented at both conferences.

In Rome, the question of an international army for Western Europe is on the agenda. And while this may not come up because of Great Britain's contention that military issues are outside the province of the Council of Europe, possible future use of German military strength will be a factor in the background.

The Trade Congress in England is supposed to concentrate mainly on economic and business matters. But here again the part that Germany is to play in Europe's future is an inescapable factor. In the present state of a world forced back into rearmament, finance and defenses are closely intertwined.

ALSO OF IMPORTANCE in connection with the two meetings is the recent conference of Western Defense Ministers in Washington.

The purely military men meeting in the American capital could not come to an agreement and postponed a major decision until it can be determined whether the proposal of French Premier Rene Pleven is a practical one.

Pleven would limit German military units to regimental strength and include these in a "supranational" army under supervision of a civilian defense board.

But it is not impossible that the U. S. State Department and British foreign office experts meeting in Rome might find some workable, diplomatic means of applying the Pleven plan.

By the same token, the economists at Torquay will be in a position to determine whether an international army, for example, is economically feasible.

All dispatches indicate that both conferences assembled with high hopes. This is particularly so in the case of the Council of Europe.

During the last meeting at

Burglar Robs Cop's Home

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7 — There's one burglar on the loose in Cleveland today who doesn't care whose house he uses to practice his profession.

Sgt. Charles E. McWilliams of the Cleveland police department left his home with his wife late yesterday to drive to Medina County for some apples.

When they returned the front door had been jimmied open and McWilliams' badge, revolver, blackjack and police shoes were missing, to say nothing of $7.50 in cash.

Couple Dies

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7 — The deaths of Frank Hudson, 76-year-old retired mechanic, and his wife, Susie, 75, have been labeled murder and suicide by police. The Hudsons were found shot to death yesterday in their home in Hartwell, a Cincinnati suburb.

Traffic Resumed After N&W Flyer Jumps Tracks

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 7—Traffic was resumed today over the Norfolk and Western Railway tracks at Franklin Furnace, 16 miles east of here, where two trainmen and a passenger were injured in a de-railment yesterday.

Treated in a Portsmouth hospital were Melvin Kessick, 62, of Portsmouth, the train engineer who suffered cut hands, legs and knees; C. K. Meyers, 54, Portsmouth, train fireman who suffered cuts on his chin and left knee, and John Pollard of West Union, a passenger and fireman first class in the Navy who had a sprained back.

The Cincinnati-to-Norfolk "Cavalier" was wrecked late yesterday at a cross-over switch between main line tracks. The train was being detoured around a track gang.

The locomotive overturned on its right side. An express car, two storage mail cars, a postal car and a combined passenger and baggage car were derailed. The cause of the mishap was not immediately determined.

Reds Recall Revolution

MOSCOW, Nov. 7—Moscow observed the 33rd anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution today with a traditional military parade in Red Square.

Moscow streets were jammed with crowds of spectators despite rainy weather to take part in a demonstration which started immediately after the parade.

The parade was reviewed by Marshal Semyon M. Budenny, a vice-commissioner of defense and a deputy chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Council.

Butler Slugged, TV Set Taken

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7 — Two robbers broke into the suburban home of Clark T. McConnell, prominent Cleveland attorney, late yesterday, slugged the butler and walked off with a large television set.

Police said the men probably had planned to take more loot, but were frightened off by movements of the McConnells' gardener in another room of the house.

The thugs came to the back door of the house, according to the butler, Matt McIntosh, 54, and asked for a drink of water. McIntosh became suspicious and started toward a telephone, but the two men followed him and struck him on the head from behind, knocking him unconscious.

Doctor Held After Shooting 2 'Blackmailers'

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 7—Muncie police held a six-foot, 200-pound, one-eyed physician on suspicion of murder today and said he admitted fatally shooting two men in a bloody consulting-room struggle over an alleged blackmail plot.

Muncie Detective Fred Denny said Dr. Jules LaDuron, 57, claimed he killed Siebert Louis Carter, 27, and a brother, Ralph Carter, 30, in self-defense last night when they visited his downtown office to demand a $750 blackmail payment in connection with "a professional matter."

However, witnesses who watched the victims' bullet-riddled bodies carried from the office said the physician shouted: "It's a case of blackmail that's been going on ever since my wife disappeared."

The wife, Freda, 34, has been missing since Sept. 16, 1937. Her disappearance led to a fruitless grand jury inquiry, divided the city into factions and became a bitter political issue.

Dr. LaDuron, who refused to discuss the reason for the alleged blackmail, said he already had paid $2,820 in installments of $1,000, $700, $620 and $500 during the last year.

He told Muncie Police Chief Harry Nelson he and the Carters "got in a fight and then they got me down and beat me." He added: "I got away and went to my desk and got a revolver. When Siebert came at me, I fired. Then Ralph came toward me and I shot him four times."

"Today's Woman Goes Shopping"

For Her Home, Her Family and Herself

This year November 11 will mark the 32nd anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, the ending of hostilities of World War I. This November L. M. BUTCH CO., JEWELERS, urges patrons to shop early for their Christmas gifts. If you are thinking of giving a COMPACT to anyone for a gift select an Elgin American or an American Beauty by Elgin American. These compact are really beautiful and come in all shapes and sizes. American Beauty compacts are priced from $1.95 up and Elgin Americans begin at $3.95. Give gifts of quality.

ARMISTICE DAY is a really good excuse for a television party. If you are planning on a TV set—MASON FURNITURE has several 16 inch SPARTAN SETS—table models, that sell at the original price of $229.95, which price does not include the new federal tax. If you are thinking of a set, avail yourself of this opportunity.

The Unknown Soldier was laid to rest in Arlington National cemetery, on Armistice Day 1921 and since that time a whole generation has come on the scene — every mode of living has been changed — a new and very practical mode is noted at BLUE FURNITURE where a pair of SLEEPWELL TWIN BEDS is disguised as sectional sofas. For the small apartment these would make a delightful arrangement. The damask covers with rope trim are pretty enough to grace any living room and sell as low as a pair of ordinary twin beds—$104.95.

If the man of the house is a veteran of World War I he would appreciate having an ARVIN HEATER in the bathroom for these chilly mornings. Singing in the bathtub or even shaving in a chilly room does not tend to make him cheerful, but with an Arvin electric heater that really heats up in a hurry because it has a motor driven fan, everything should be jake. BOYD'S sell these heaters at $10.95.

Veterans of World War I have reached the age when home is the most important place in their life — a brightly lighted home — one where many lamps correctly placed give a heart warming effect on a cold evening. MASON FURNITURE has a line of beautiful china base LAMPS that are hand decorated. There is a wide choice of designs and colors and are priced as low as $5.95.

If some of the "boys" are dropping in for a get-together on Armistice Day, stop in at ISALY'S and get a half pound of chopped ham chipped wafers for only 49c — then make a bar-b-q sauce to pour over it and serve sandwiches and you will be delighted with the results. To make the sauce use about a fourth can of tomato soup, 2 tablespoons of liquor from a bottle of sweet pickles, a cup of water, a dash of prepared mustard and a tablespoon of relish. Mix the ingredients together, heat (do not boil) and pour over the chipped ham — then bake in the oven at 300 to 325 degrees for 20 minutes — really delicious.

This year Armistice Day finds us facing another threat from tyrannical forces — as in the days of Paul Revere from whom the name of Revere Ware is derived — why not brighten your kitchen with a REVERE RACK — or better still get a starter set of Revere Ware consisting of a quart saucepan, a quart and half saucepan and a 6 inch skillet with the rack for only $13.95. This is an introductory offer and is good for a limited time with the trend toward more colorful kitchens, what could be more fitting than a brilliant array of Revere Ware with its lustre of copper and sparkling stainless steel displayed in your kitchen on a smart new utensil rack.

Memories of that conflict come to haunt the "boys" of World War I on Armistice Day and visions of the hardships they endured softened by the comfort of their families. Give the old boy a party on Armistice Day—dress up the table with a complete set of beautiful Franciscan china in CHEROKEE ROSE pattern then with Sterling silver in the delightful new pattern called BROCADE. To make the setting complete use Fostoria glassware in MINUT for dinner time music. All this will please the family and delight guests. L. M. BUTCH CO., JEWELERS.

Tigers Plan Light Drill This Week

Lions Could Be Rough In Finale

Light workouts will be the keynote of preparation this week by the Circleville Tiger football team for its season finale Friday in Washington C. H.

Coach Steve Brudzinski said Tuesday's practice was to have consisted of dummy work and only very little scrimmaging.

For Wednesday, the team will devote its time to defense work, while the training program will be ended Thursday under the lights.

The Tiger team submitted to only light calisthenics and exercises Monday in Ted Lewis Park, lasting less than an hour.

MISSING FROM THE LINEUP Monday was Big John Valentine, powerhouse Tiger fullback and the key defensive player for the Circleville team.

Valentine suffered a knee injury in last Thursday's contest against invading Westerville Wildcats.

"His knee was sore and stiff Monday," said Coach Brudzinski, "but I think he'll be in good shape for the Friday game."

Remainder of the Tiger team is in good shape, physically, and

A total of 2,095 tickets will be available for local fans attending the Washington game Friday. J. Wray Henry, high school principal, said they would go on sale in the high school building entrance lobby at 9 a. m. Thursday. Duets include 500 students at 30 cents, 1,250 general admission at 75 cents and 345 reserved seats at $1.

the complete team should dress for the final tilt of the season at Washington.

Fans expecting Washington's Blue Lions to be push-overs for the Tigers may possibly have a shock in store.

According to the record, the Lions have earned four wins in eight starts to date this season, while the CHS Tigers have won seven of their eight games so far.

However, in each of its four losses to date this season the Lions have fallen by less than nine points.

And while losing four matches, the Washington team has allowed the opposition to score only 97 points in eight contests while the Tigers, losers of only one game, has allowed the opposition to score a total of 115 points.

CIRCLEVILLE HOLDS the upper hand in offensive work this season, however. In eight games the Circleville team has racked up a total of 319 points while the Lions have scored only 187 points in the same number of contests.

By way of comparison, the CHS'ers (on paper again) stand to win over the Washington team by margins of either 12, 32 or 48 points.

Here's the way that sort of tomfoolery works:

Circleville beat Wilmington by a score of 32-25, while Wilmington beat Washington by a 25-20 margin. This gives Circleville 12 points margin over Washington.

Circleville beat Greenfield 30-0 and Greenfield upset Washington 14-12, giving the Tigers a 32-point margin.

Circleville slaughtered Hillsboro by an 89-0 score, while Washington bested the same Hillsboro team by a score of 41-0. This gives CHS a 48-point lead.

However, the paperwork seldom works out in football, especially in a traditional enemy game such as Friday's season climacter.

Washington to date this season has not met a team which has been able to keep it from scoring. It opened its season with three straight wins, lost the first, won another and is now on a losing streak of three straight.

LONDON HANDED the Washington team its worst defeat of the season—a 20-7 margin.

However, win, lose or tie in Friday's final game, the Circleville lads will have these three things:

1. At least a tie for first place in the South Central Ohio League, since it goes into the final game undefeated while each of the other league teams has suffered at least one loss;
2. A trip to the Ohio State university Saturday to watch the State-Wisconsin game. The trip is sponsored by the Circleville Booster Club; and
3. A free pass to Circleville's first Fall wrestling performance Saturday night in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Fordham Fears Video Pull

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—Fordham university, once one of the nation's grid powerhouses, fears that the televising of "big" games every Saturday may compel it to drop football.

Jack Coffey, graduate manager of athletics for the Rams, issued an appeal to alumni yesterday to forget about video on Saturday and come out to see their team play.

Fordham doesn't televise any of its home games and Coffey believes the "name" schools are stealing the audiences via the TV camera.

first Fall wrestling performance Saturday night in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The wrestling "invite" was given by Si Boystel, promoter for the grunt and groan card, who has promised the Tiger players general admission passes to the show. The Tigers may obtain their free duets to the show by appearing in the offices of The Circleville Herald by noon Saturday.

Surveys Show More Pheasants

There apparently are going to be more pheasants for Pickaway County hunters to shoot at in the season opening Nov. 15, but the difficulty will be in finding them.

A survey of the pheasant population in six Northwestern Ohio counties by the Ohio wildlife research unit at Ohio State university shows 185 pheasants seen per 100 miles of travel. This compares with 26 pheasants per 100 miles in 1947, 82 in 1948 and 117 last year.

The counties under study were Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Marion, Sandusky and Wood. But Charles A. Dambach, chief of the state division of wildlife, warned that the increase does not necessarily mean bigger hunting bags.

Dambach pointed out that the increase is caused primarily by better habitat which tends to protect the birds from the eyes of the hunter.

The university survey showed increases in the pheasant population in five of the counties, with the level remaining approximately the same in Hardin County.

Other reports show probable increases in Pickaway, Champaign and Fayette Counties.

Farmers from Henry, Wood, Champaign and Fayette Counties all reported sizeable increases in the number of rabbits per 100 acres.

Ex-OSU Football Star Is Named

Farmers Now Need To Study Low-Cost Bushel Production

High Yield Said Main Factor

Best Ponders
Purdue Report

Predictions by economists that prices are going up while agricultural income lags behind comprise a warning signal for farmers to concentrate on low-cost bushel production in the months ahead.

Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural extension agent, said Tuesday that a high yield per acre is the most important single factor in controlling cost per bushel.

He cited recent research at Purdue university on corn, wheat, soybeans, hay and pasture, where the yield per acre had more influence on keeping down costs per bushel than any other single production factor.

A survey of 134 farms in South-eastern Indiana, showed that farmers who ranked among the top third in corn yields per acre had double the net income from their crop of those in the bottom third.

For wheat, the top-yielding third had a net income eleven times greater per acre than the low one-third. The difference was three times for hay and seven times for soybeans.

PURDUE AGRONOMISTS estimate that when wheat yields were upped to 40 bushels per acre, the cost per bushel was only 84 cents. But when yields dropped to 15 bushels per acre, it cost $2.24 to produce each bushel of wheat.

"When yields per acre are high, a farmer is in better shape to make a profit in spite of rising costs or falling prices," Best observed. "The way to get higher yields is to make every acre do a better crop producing job through good soil management methods."

"In such a program you need to check whether you need fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash."

"You need plant varieties best adapted to your soil and growing conditions—heavier yielding, hardier types of corn, wheat, and soybeans. You need a good rotation in which well-fed deep-rooted legumes add organic matter and condition your soil for more bushels per acre of corn and small grains."

Edward Wolf Given Honor

Edward Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Wolf of 237 East Mound, has been awarded an honor certificate for outstanding scholarship at Capital university, Columbus. ## Judge Underwood Snorts Disgust At Lustron Case

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7—The Lustron Corp. case, the "white elephant" of the courts, flared up again today.

U. S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood issued a blast late yesterday at a federal court move in Chicago to send the already defunct pre-fab housing firm into bankruptcy.

Underwood claimed the "unnecessary move" will "ultimately cost taxpayers additional hundreds of thousands of dollars."

While the bankruptcy proceedings are being heard in Chicago, a move of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to foreclose on Lustron for $37.5 million in loans is adding fuel to the fire of the court litigations, Underwood said.

"From a technical standpoint, the bankruptcy proceeding in Chicago is correct. From a standpoint of justice, it is absolutely uncalled for. Only the taxpayer is being gypped and he already has been gypped too much."

Housecleaning For City Now Is Major Task

For most persons housecleaning comes in the Spring, but Circleville service department worries about it in the Fall.

And, according to Service Director John Neuding, a thorough housecleaning is what the city is getting now.

"We have to prepare for Winter," he explained. "There are drains to be fixed, leaves to be cleared and streets to be patched."

He said that service department employees already have started on these jobs. The street patching is being done whenever weather permits.

He added that one of the most exasperating jobs being undertaken is filling in holes on North Pickaway street.

"Almost as fast as we fill them in, they sink again," he said, explaining that the holes were caused by new sewer lines laid during the Summer.

The Ohio Workmen's Compensation Law was enacted in 1911.
